Our world is an "ever-whirling wheel" of change. The old must very often yield to the new in order to meet society's demands.

At KHS this challenge of change enters the scope of our own personal world. Our hopes and cares and ambitions are subject to daily alteration. We become accustomed to different teachers, unfamiliar classes, and new friendships, some to last forever.

And all the while we are maturing physically, mentally, and spiritually with startling rapidity.

This transitional period from childhood to adulthood is quite often puzzling. We sometimes consider innovation as an end in itself. Therefore, there comes a time when we must view change in its proper historical perspective and know that all that matters is the ultimate worth of what we do.

This is the essence of change—the outcome of tomorrow rests on the values we seek today.

r. John M. Crothers came to Kingsbury fourteen years ago, while it was still a very young school. The junior high school had just been added, giving Kingsbury a total of some 265 students and a dozen teachers. All classes were conducted in the building now known as the "J" Hall.

Last December, Dr. Crothers received his Doctorate in Business Administration and Statistics. During the summer, he accepted the position of Director of the University of Tennessee—Memphis State University Center for Advanced Graduate Study.

For the first time in its history, Kingsbury has a new leader, Frank C. Billingsley, Jr., who has come to Kingsbury from Overton High.

Mr. Billingsley was with The Memphis Press-Scimitar Circulation Department for about eleven years. His teaching career began five years ago at Overton where he was a social studies teacher and part-time assistant principal. Last year he gave up teaching and became fulltime assistant principal.

Now he has come to Kingsbury to take on the problems and responsibilities of a very large school. There is no doubt that we have an able principal.

KHS proudly welcomes new principal

Band next year

New faces,

Each year male members of the Senior and Junior classes participate in an unofficial football game at Gaisman Park. Any interested boy is invited to play in this informal game. By winning the game 27-21, the Seniors proved to be too tough for the Juniors.

Senior high cheerleaders continued to promote this spirit by leading cheers and acting out humorous skits. Whether they were portraying villainous East High Mustangs or a band consisting of Sam the Sham and the Frayser Rams or Paul Falcon and the Raiders, they always entertained the school crowds.

'Spirit Week' explodes

Kingsbury students have participated in "Spirit Week" for the past two years. Spirited students from each class act in a skit during a pep rally.

As the fires of school spirit are kindled, students make signs and hang them throughout the school building. School spirit reaches its peak. Effects of "School Spirit" are lasting for they can be seen in the faces of students and heard in their conversation. Students carried a strong "Spirit Stick" to the Treadwell game at the Fairgrounds Stadium where KHS stomped the Eagles 20-0.

Y-Teen powder puff game heightens gaiety of 'Spirit Week' and homecoming

Sophomore girls played in a mock football game during the "Spirit Week" pep rally, since the powder puff game was only for the junior and senior girls. They showed that they were behind the Falcons all the way.

On October 6, the Senior Y-Teens held an exciting powder puff game. They boys cheered the senior girls on to a 26-13 victory. During the game Mike Collins was named as the new Y-Teen football king.

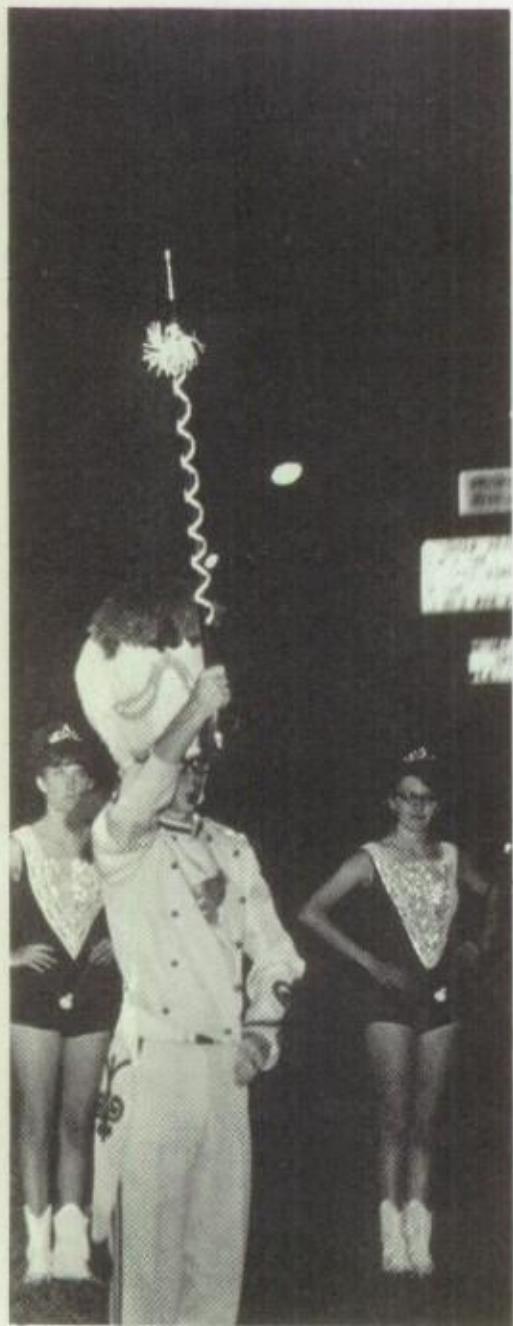

Crowning football queen highlights Falcon-Eagle game

October 7, 1966—a day filled with excitement for five nervous young ladies. New outfits, new hairdos, and high hopes adorned the candidates as they made their way onto the field surrounded by the band. The five candidates, Lynn Thomas, Brenda Bivens, Janice Lawrence, Mary Harbin, and Jeannie Bright, were nominated by the student body.

Then came the announcement everyone was waiting for. "Second alternate, Janice Lawrence; first alternate, Mary Harbin; and the 1966-67 Homecoming Football Queen, Jeannie Bright."

As tears filled Jeannie's eyes, Mr. Billingsley placed the crown on her head and awarded her a bouquet of flowers and a gold football charm.

Eager to do work for charity, Kingsbury students patiently waited as Mary Harbin, Student Council president, passed out the leukemia drive packets. Student collected $1,160, a great improvement over last year's $600.

Playday volleyball members worked hard to win second place in the city championship.

Senior girls displayed all types of talent in the Junior Miss Pageant. Some sang, danced, or played a musical instrument; Others gave dramatic readings and read poems.

Opening the Junior Miss Pageant, young ladies proceeded into the auditorium in flowing evening dresses. All the candidates displayed a talent.

While the judges voted, the junior girls put on a skit about next year's Junior Miss. After the votes were tallied, the announcement was made: Lynn Thomas, second alternate; Cheryl Hamby, first alternate; Jeannie Bright, Miss Junior Miss of Kingsbury.

As the Junior High Band played and the cheerleaders yelled, the football queen candidates tensely awaited the announcement of the new junior high football Queen.

Candidates, nominated by the junior high football team and voted on by the seventh, eighth, and ninth graders were Faye Jones, Anita Mynatt, Carol Thomas, Janice Howell, and Geri Tice. As the pep rally came to a close, the excitement came to a peak as Miss Nichols announced Carol Thomas the newly crowned football queen. The screams and applause brought tears to Carol's eyes as Miss Nichols placed the crown on her head.

Upper left: Key Club sweethearts Dana Lynch and Becky Milam show off their new key club pins. Center: Kathryn Kilpatrick and Keith Wooten wait for everyone to arrive so they can begin the Student Council bicycle hike to Audubon Park. Upper right: UP WITH PEOPLE brings the message of patriotism through music to KHS students. Lower right: The well-known UP WITH PEOPLE performs for KHS students during a special assembly. Lower left: Slowly but surely, Student Council members begin to arrive on bicycles with a hearty lunch tucked away.

October ends with bang

Members of the Key Club chose Dana Lynch and Becky Milam as their sweet-hearts. These attractive senior girls helped the boys with their projects such as collecting canned goods for Happy Acres.

Student Council members took time out from their many duties for a bicycle hike to Audubon Park. After the long, hard ride, they ate a hearty lunch and played tennis.

On October 30, UP WITH PEOPLE came to Kingsbury, bringing words of patriotism to students. Members of the cast gave brief speeches of their idea of patriotism and freedom.

Band queen honored in November

During the month of April, Betty Schoone was elected by her fellow band members as the 1966-67 band queen. Betty has been a member of the band for six years and plays the trumpet. Escorted by former band leader Steve Kennedy, Betty was presented to her school on November 3, 1966, during the halftime of the KHS-Oakhaven game.

Mrs. James R. Smith, Band Fan Club President, presented Betty with a bouquet of Roses.

This year the annual "Open House" was held on November 7. The PTA and faculty invited the parents to come and see how their children live at school.

Determined to win their last football game, the Falcon cheerleaders presented Coach Lewis with a "Lucky Horseshoe" made of mums. While the students "raised the roof" with yells, cheerleader Donna Rhodes awarded the "Spirit Stick" to the Junior Class.

Defendant found

Guilty or not guilty? Did Karen Andre (Jeannie Bright) murder Bijorn Faulkner? Only the jury could decide. It all happened on "The Night of January 16" presented November 17 by the Speech Department under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis White. After heated testimonies and tears, Karen Andre was found not guilty.

'not guilty'

Far left: Karen Andre, played by Jeannie Bright, pleads with Tommy Winberry to help her prove her innocence. Center: In the speech department play, "The Night of January 16th," Loyce Stracener tells Ronnie Bunnell all she knows about the murder. Upper right: Jeannie Bright and Janice Lawrence as Mrs. Faulkner exchange words of hatred for one another as Janice takes the stand. Lower right: Detective Tex Schwartz reports to the defending lawyer Hooper Jones. Lower left: "Yes," says Becky Strong the housemaid, "I've seen Karen Andre several times with Mr. Faulkner."

Activities fill the lives of KHS students

For their annual outing, members of the Junior Honor Society had luncheon at the Villa. Students and faculty enjoyed the famous Villa smorgasbord.

In honor of the late Miss Mary Myrick, a former math teacher here, and Private First Class Lonnie King, a former student, the Student Council in cooperation with the PTA planted a Tennessee poplar in the courtyard.

On December 5, the Junior High Music Department presented "Artaban." This is the story of the fourth wiseman who went in search of the Christ Child but never found him. Larry Norman played the title role.

Feasting and fun accompanied the Senior Honor Society Banquet held at the Cafe St. Clair on December 2. The Honor Society members enjoyed steak and baked potatoes. The social ended with remarks by President Larry Luton and Mr. Vinson.

December opens with annual Christmas play

History students depict past years

For an assembly Mr. Kang Rhee, winner of a six-degree black belt in karate, demonstrated the importance of karate as a means of self-defense. Mr. Rhee proved his strength and ability by using his hands and feet to break two thick boards.

What makes a Junior feel more like a Senior? Ordering his class ring, of course! When January 27 rolled around, hundreds of Juniors flowed into the auditorium anxiously waiting to be measured for their rings.

This year the history department put on an assembly program showing the history of our country from the American Revolution to 1966. Kingsbury students practiced hard, made their own costumes, and enacted the different periods of American history.

Junior Honor Society combats smoking

Far left: Dr. Crothers and Mrs. Hallie Douglas greet each other with a warm handshake before the PTA Founders' Day Program. Center: Linda Harrison, Jana Smith, and Benny James collected Victory Flag money. The Victory Flag will be flown after all victories. Right: Mr. Nice and Terrific, played by Mr. Koonce, tries to destroy smoking diseases, played by Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Wilhelm, Mr. Donald Rhodes, and Mr. Morse. Lower right: Dr. Harry Davis explains to Steve Moss the dangers of smoking. Lower left: Bill Todd, Dr. Paul Sherman, Mr. Wicker, Mary Harbin, and Billy Barlow talk to Kingsbury Elementary students about smoking.

This year, for the first time, Kingsbury students acquired a victory flag. For a month students generously dropped money into the KHS wishing well until they reached the $200 goal.

Kingsbury students assembled February 6 to hear two former principals speak. Introduced by Mrs. Hallie Douglas, Dr. John Crothers spoke on the importance of an education.

Teachers and students joined together to combat the smoking habit. A panel composed of teachers and students spoke at Kingsbury Elementary. Some of the high school teachers wrote a skit and presented it for the junior high students, showing the different diseases that have been attributed to smoking.

Sportsman, cheerleader captur

An "all around sportsman", Billy excels in football, basketball, and baseball. His hobbies include hunting, skiing, and fishing. He is a member of the Key Club, K Club, and is a Student Council delegate. Although he spends many hours each day in sports, he maintains a "B" academic average.

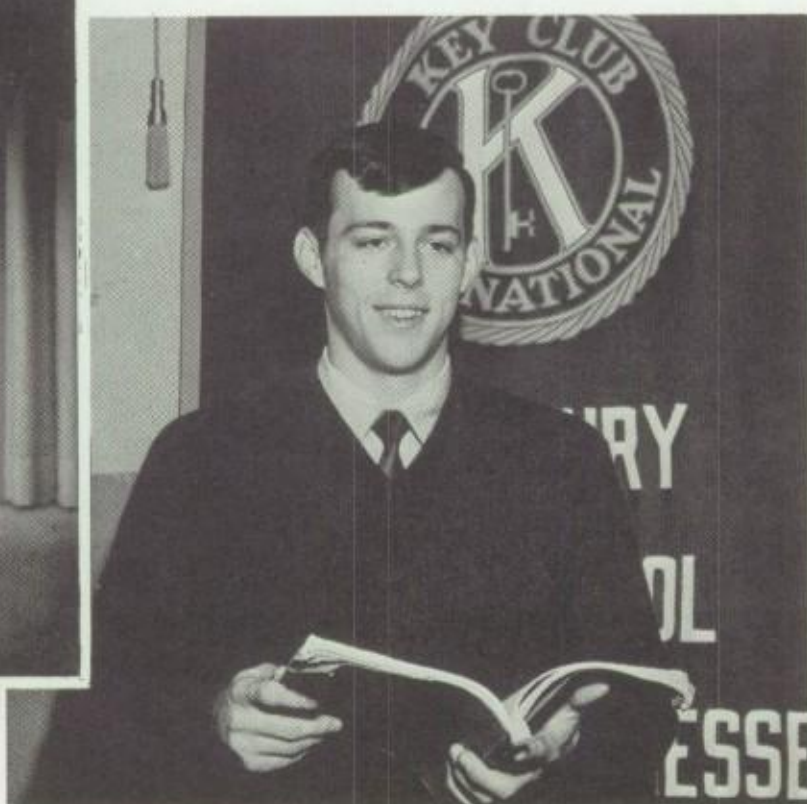

Mary is described as a leader, a person who has her school at heart. She has served as president of the Pep Club and Student Council secretary. She has been elected "Class Favorite" for the last four years and was a candidate for both Junior High and Senior High Homecoming Queens.

Titles of Mr. and Miss

Honors

Upper left: Mary Harbin and Billy Barlow enjoy aquatic sports during the summer months. Upper right: Mary made school history when she was elected the first female Student Council president. Lower left: Mary has served as varsity cheerleader for three years and as first alternate for one year. Center: Billy is a member of the Key Club, an honorary club for boys. Lower left: Athlete Billy succeeds in football, basketball, and baseball.

Students' interests vary

Mr. and Miss Kingsbury and Campus Leaders are chosen by the Senior Class from among the top 50 boys and top 50 girls, as academically ranked, in the Senior Class. The faculty selects one boy and one girl from the Campus Leaders to be Mr. and Miss Kingsbury.

For left: Patsy Jenkins serves as business manager on the staff of the FALCONER. She plays the French horn in the band and is a member of the National Honor Society and Y-Teens. Center: Randy Page is a member of the Hi-Y, and enjoys all sports, including hunting, skiing, and swimming. Far right: Becky Milam is a member of the Y-Teens, Pep Club, and was chosen Key Club Sweetheart. Her hobbies include sewing and reading. Left: Larry Murphy enjoys skiing and playing golf. He is a member of the Hi-Y. Shelia Bradford is a member of Y-Teens and Pep Club and enjoys all types of sports. Below: Randy McCord has been Student Council treasurer and delegate. He is Key Club Chaplain and Math Club President.

Students play active parts at KHS

Far left: A vivacious teenager, Janice Lawrence enjoys cheer-leading, dancing, and acting. Her interests at school include Y-Teens, Thespians, and the National Honor Society. She has participated in musicals and plays such as "The Night of January 16th" and "South Pacific." Center: As president of the History Club, treasurer of Thespians, and chaplain of the Hi-Y, Ronnie Bunnell shows his interest in public speaking and working with other people. By performing in several school plays, he has increased his enthusiasm for the dramatic arts. Outside school Ronnie is an energetic golfer. Above left: Senior Class chaplain Dixie Arrington has been active in Y-Teens, Pep Club, and French Club. She is a great lover of spectator sports. Dixie is an enthusiastic participant at Leawood Baptist Church. Above center: Pat Carman leads a busy life as a member of the TALON staff, French Club, Quill and Scroll, and the National Honor Society. Above right: Tommy Winberry's major interest is the theater. He has worked with every school play and musical since the ninth grade and was a member of the cast of "Macbeth", recently presented by Front Street Theater. His club activities include vice president of Thespians and the French Club. Lower left: Tommy Pyron is a member of the French Club, enjoys playing tennis, and participating in activities at St. Stephen's Methodist Church, where he is an active member.

uating class. Beverly's average is 3.95, and Pat's, 3.92. Rank is based on the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades.

Larry Luton and Pam Capps represented Kingsbury last summer at Boys' and Girls' State in Cookeville and Murfreesboro, Tennessee, respectively. By establishing a mock government, the student lawmakers learned phases of legislative and judicial procedures.

Good times fill junior high years

Athletes win district honors;

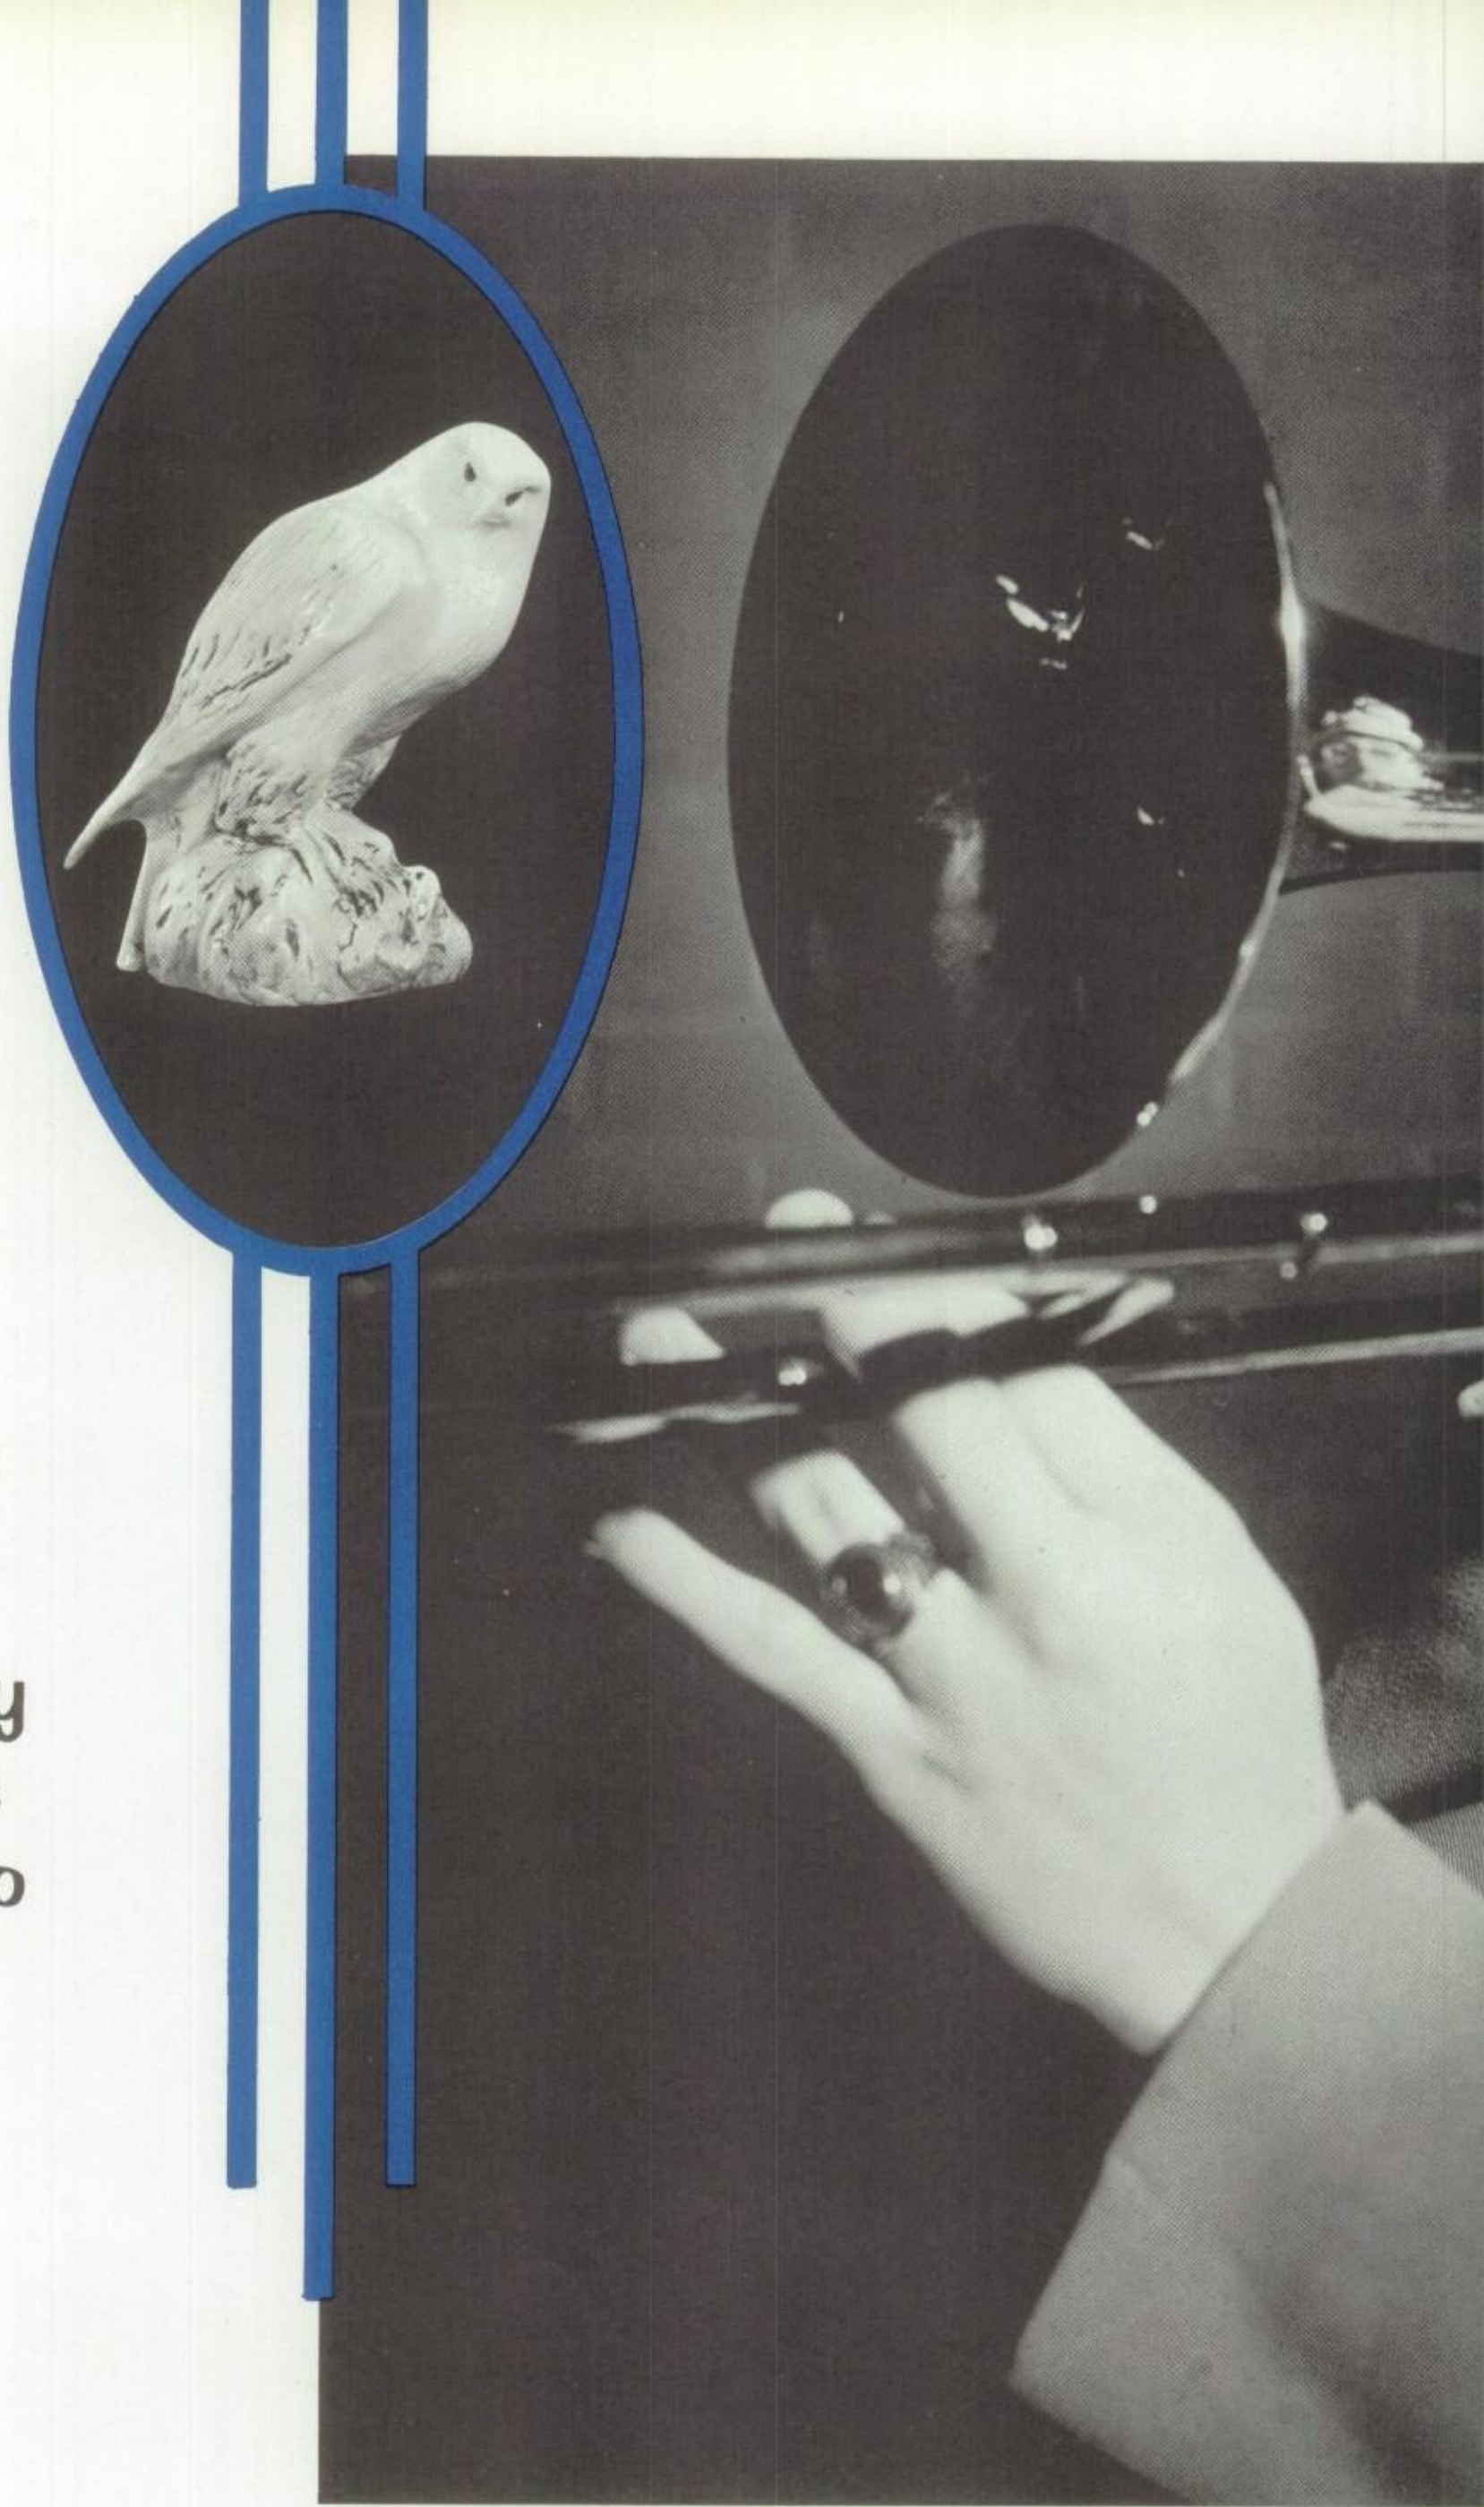

editors exercise creative talent, leadership

Band Boosts Spirit At School Functions

Whether clambering aboard a bus, playing with frozen fingers in a gusty stadium, or harmonizing while watching Mr. Goldsmith, the band showed spirit and determination.

Active described them. Members sold candy to sponsor future band trips and a Spring Concert honored the new band queen. The band marched in the Christmas Parade November 18, and entered competition in the Solo Ensemble Contest in February.

Senior and junior choruses stay busy year round

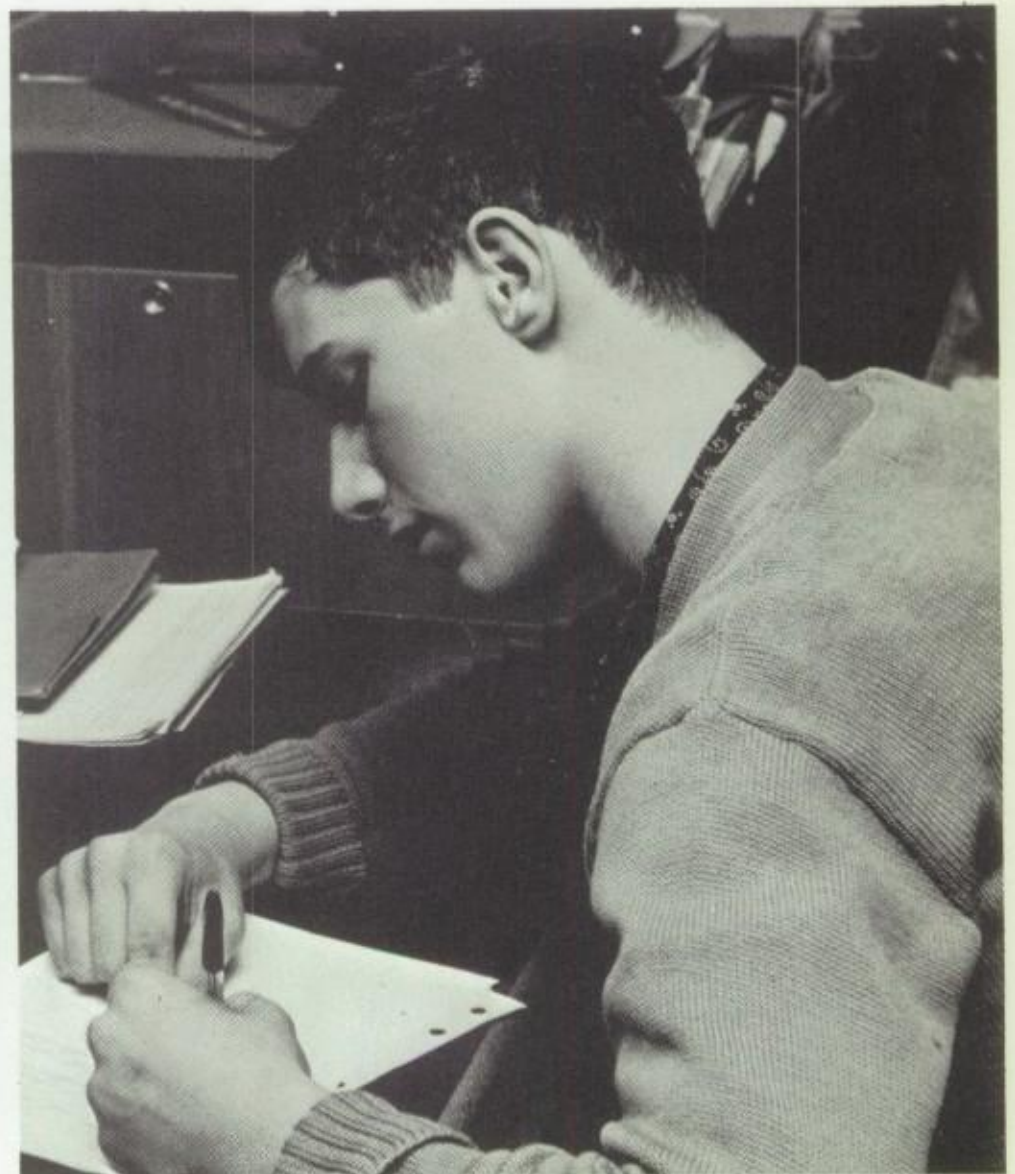

Fifteen members were chosen for their singing ability to attend Murray State's quad-state festival, held last November 7. There they were among some 400 other chorus members participating in the event.

On December 21, the senior chorus caroled down Kingsbury's halls with Santa leading the procession. After singing there, they visited six elementary schools, also singing in their halls. They performed on "Talent Showcase," appearing on Saturday morning on WMCT, January 14.

"Active" is the word best describing the Junior High Singers. Mrs. Wilhelm has been in charge of the chorus each year for the past six years. The group got new uniforms this year; the girls now wear a maroon jumper with a white blouse; the boys wear dark colored pants, white shirt, and dark colored sweater with a black tie.

On November 21, the chorus sang at the Board of Education and at Collerville on December 16. They also attended the movie, "The King and I," at the Plaza, October 5. Their main production for this year was the one-act musical, "Artaban," presented on December 5 in the Kingsbury auditorium.

The 8th notes sang at Graham Heights Baptist Church on December 14, and they went Christmas caroling at Kennedy Hospital on December 16. They also sang at the annual Band Concert held in the Spring.

Even though this is the first year for the seventh grade chorus, they got off to a good start. Mrs. Oldham, the chorus director, has about 40 members.

On December 18, the chorus went Christmas caroling at LeBonheur Hospital. They wore their new uniforms; a red skirt and white blouse for the girls; dark pants, white shirt, and red tie for the boys.

With the Key Club as co-workers, the FHA organized the student directory, which was sold at school for 50 cents a copy. Dressing dolls to present to the Goodfellows was another FHA project. Each girl volunteered and accepted as many dolls as she thought she could dress. Children received the dolls at the Goodfellow's Christmas Party.

Besides the annual initiation, the FHA members made Christmas stockings, invited guest speakers, and planned several parties for Christmas and throughout the year.

Through Future Teachers of America those wishing to be teachers got practice and valuable experience working with classes at Kingsbury Elementary. On March 17, members gave a coffee for teachers and students with whom they worked. The theme of the coffee was Saint Patrick's Day.

Bringing cheer to the aged at Christmas time the Future Nurses Club sang at Shelby County Hospital, December 19. The Saturday before Easter saw them at St. Peter's Home for Children holding an egg hunt. FNC promoted interest in the field of nursing and urged its members to do volunteer work in Memphis hospitals.

Paris . . . Madrid . . . Acapulco . . . the Riviera . . . ever been there? To the Kingsbury French Club or Spanish Club this doesn't matter!

French Club members this year started the year off by dining at the Four Flames. Miss Vivian Bolen, who actually has been to the French Riviera and Paris, spoke at one of their later meetings. Père Noel made his annual Christmas visit, and a collection of toys and canned foods was sent to LeBonheur Children's Hospital. Members also sang French Christmas carols to the children.

Pancho's was the scene for the Spanish Club's banquet. Members exchanged gifts and had refreshments at their annual Christmas party. Hooper Jones shared his experiences of last summer in the Instituto Tecnológico De Monterrey with club members and exhibited various souvenirs.

Clubs revive interest in classics

Junior and Senior Classical Leagues held their annual Christmas wrapping paper sale in October to raise money for the Kingsbury Scholarship Fund. Two hundred and fifty boxes were sold for a record sale.

Roman articles were made to be used in the spring Roman Fair, and the end-of-the-year Roman banquet served as a learning situation as well as an interesting program.

Classical League initiates were hard to miss with purple bows in their hair and red apples pinned to collars. Solemnity was lent to this initiation in November by the formal lighting of candles.

Parties highlight year for Y-Teens

Confetti sales, fashions shows, and slumber parties highlighted the year for members of the Junior, Senior, and 10th grade Y-Teens. The Senior Y-Teens' slumber party was held at the T. Walker Lewis YMCA on January 27. Dancing, swimming, and basketball provided entertainment.

KHS's annual powder puff football game was won by the senior girls. At the game, which was played October 6, senior Mike Collins was crowned this year's football king.

Each month an outstanding member of the Y-Teens was chosen as Y-Teen of the month. Selection was based on each girl's contribution to the club's activities for that month.

Kingsbury's Junior Miss Pageant, held October 18, was sponsored by the Y-Teens. Members served as ushers and provided entertainment during intermission. A group of Y-Teens made up questions to test the poise and personality of the five finalists. Jeannie Bright was chosen as Kingsbury's Junior Miss.

During the Christmas holidays the Senior Y-Teens held a banquet at the Villa.

"Return that bottle. Be sure not to leave that paper on the table!" These familiar phrases were uttered to students every day by members of the K-Club on duty in the lunchroom. They could be recognized by their yellow vests bearing the maroon K.

Another project of the K Club was selling football jerseys. Each member took subscriptions for the jerseys which were sold for $5.00.

With the Key Club as opponents, the Hi-Y won at basketball 63-45. All proceeds went to the Kingsbury Scholarship Fund.

The Hi-Y also collected food for Happy Acres, an institute for retarded children, and planned the annual "Ridiculous Night", which was held February 24. The highlight of the night was a basketball game with the women and men faculty against the men and women of the Booster Club.

Under Miss Davis's direction, members of the Art Club made the scenery for the spring musical "Flower Drum Song." The club also aided in decorations for the Senior Banquet, and members submitted drawings for the annual art exhibit.

One big booster of school spirit this year was the Pep Club working along with the cheerleaders. The horseshoe present at games and pep rallies was made by the Pep Club. Cheerleaders sported corsages furnished by the club. To cheer the team on, members made signs and decorated the football goal posts.

Popcorn and pom-pom sales served as sources of revenue for the Club.

One of the newer clubs on campus, the Saddle Club had 12 members. The only requirement for membership was a keen interest in horsemanship, with some members owning their own horse. Trail rides were the main activity of the club, and the members had a field trip to Raleigh Ranch.

Happy Acres canned food drive sponsored by the Key Club collected 4,500 cans. Each homeroom collecting 50 or more cans saw a movie.

The Key Club and FHA made a project of compiling and selling the KHS directory, "Fone A Falcon," and Key Club members played the Senior Hi-Y in their first annual basketball game to raise money for the KHS scholarship fund. The Kingsbury Elementary bookstore is also operated by the Key Club.

To raise revenue, birthday cakes were sold to the parents of Kingsbury's populace and presented to the student on his birthday as a surprise. By enrolling in the course of D.E., students automatically become members of the club as a supplement to the class.

Conducting a rummage sale was the high point of the year for the Math Club. Members collected unwanted articles from friends and relatives. The sale started at 7 a.m. at the corner of Broad and Tillman. Everything from old mattresses to evening gowns was sold for a total of $42.

Popcorn sales, parties, and a luncheon at Coletta's were also planned. Another project of the Math Club was donating money to the library for math books.

Playing chess at club meetings was the main interest of members of the Chess Club. Two members played at each meeting until the field was narrowed down to the best players. In turn, these players played each other.

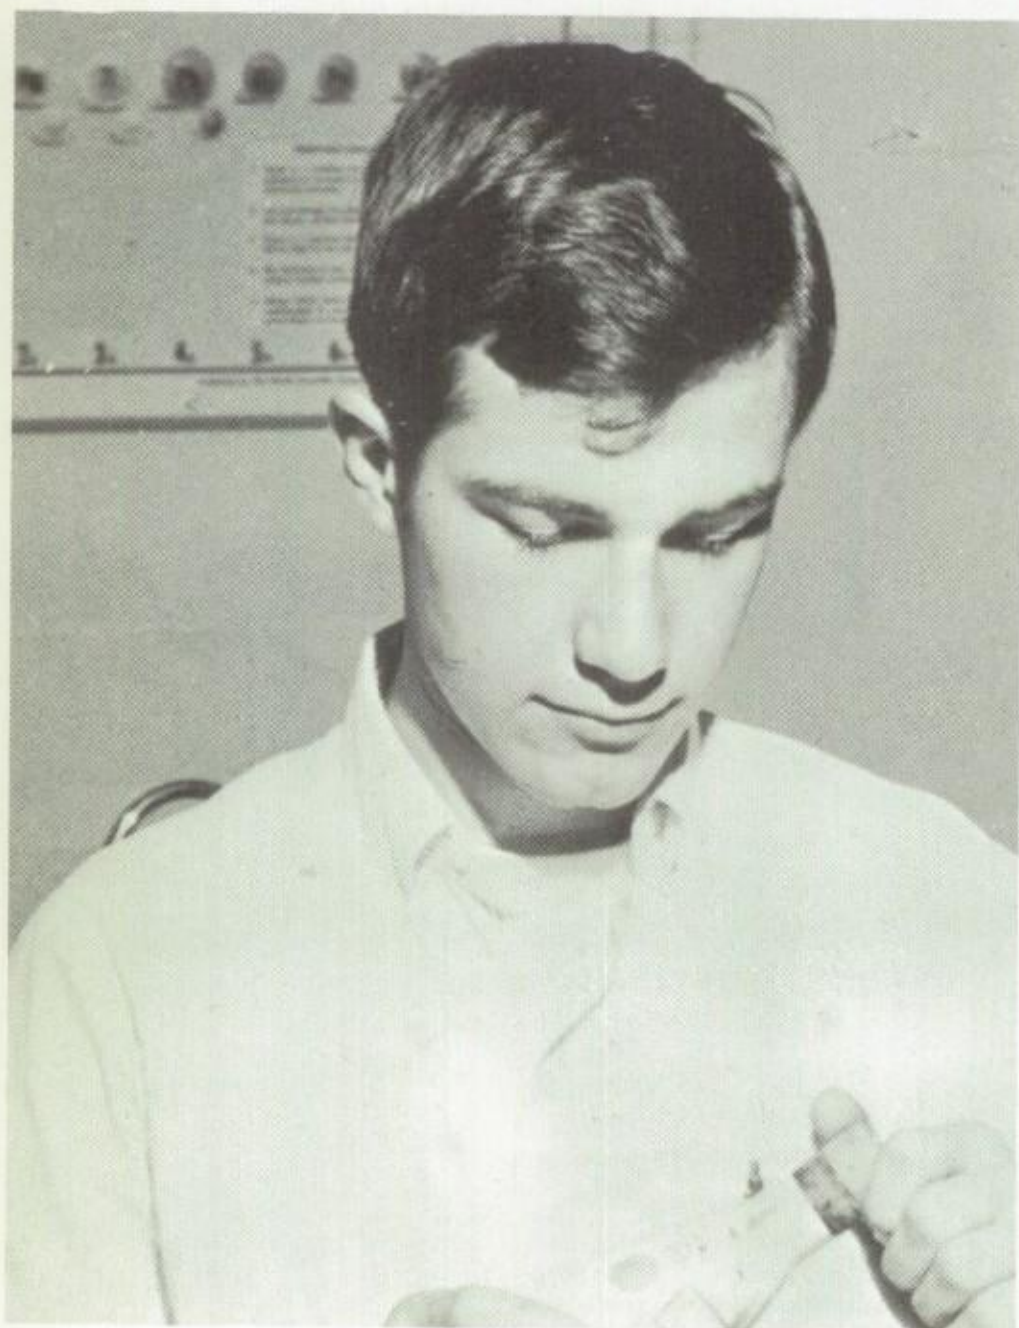

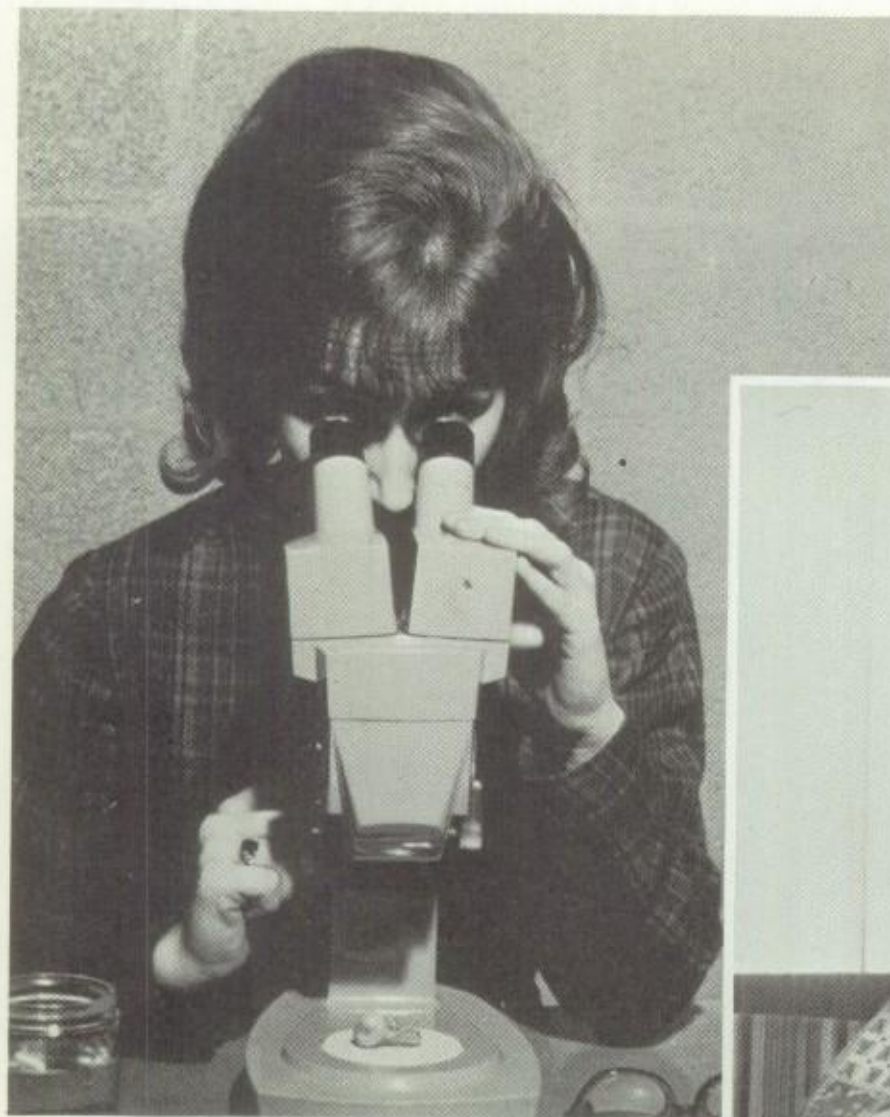

Members of the Senior Chess Club also helped younger Kingsbury students who were interested in chess. Older members explained techniques of chess and sportsmanship.

Kingsbury's Quiz 'Em Team was formed especially to compete in The Commercial Appeal's "Quiz 'Em On The Air" on WMCT-TV.

Sponsored by Mrs. Ann Rotenberry, the team appeared on January 21 to play against Harding Academy. Members included Judy Machiavello, Jean and Janet Matthews, Patsy Whitehorn and Reece Rogers.

Tryouts for the Quiz 'Em team were based on tests given by Mrs. Rotenberry on details found in The Commercial Appeal.

For the first meeting members of the KHS Science Club met in Mr. Bailey's lab to hear a lecture from CBC's Brother Carney on laser beams. Monthly meetings of the Tennessee Junior Academy of Science were held at Southwestern for the club members and any others interested in science.

Science kits illustrating experiments were worked on during meetings that serve as a learning process.

Members of the Senior Science Club must have at least a B average in science to be eligible for membership.

Students review world situations

Various guest speakers sparked interest in the history of our nation for members of the History Club, which was organized in February. Nathan Bedford Forrest was the topic of the speaker, Mr. Ed Williams. Discussions afterwards compelled the members to do more research on local heroes.

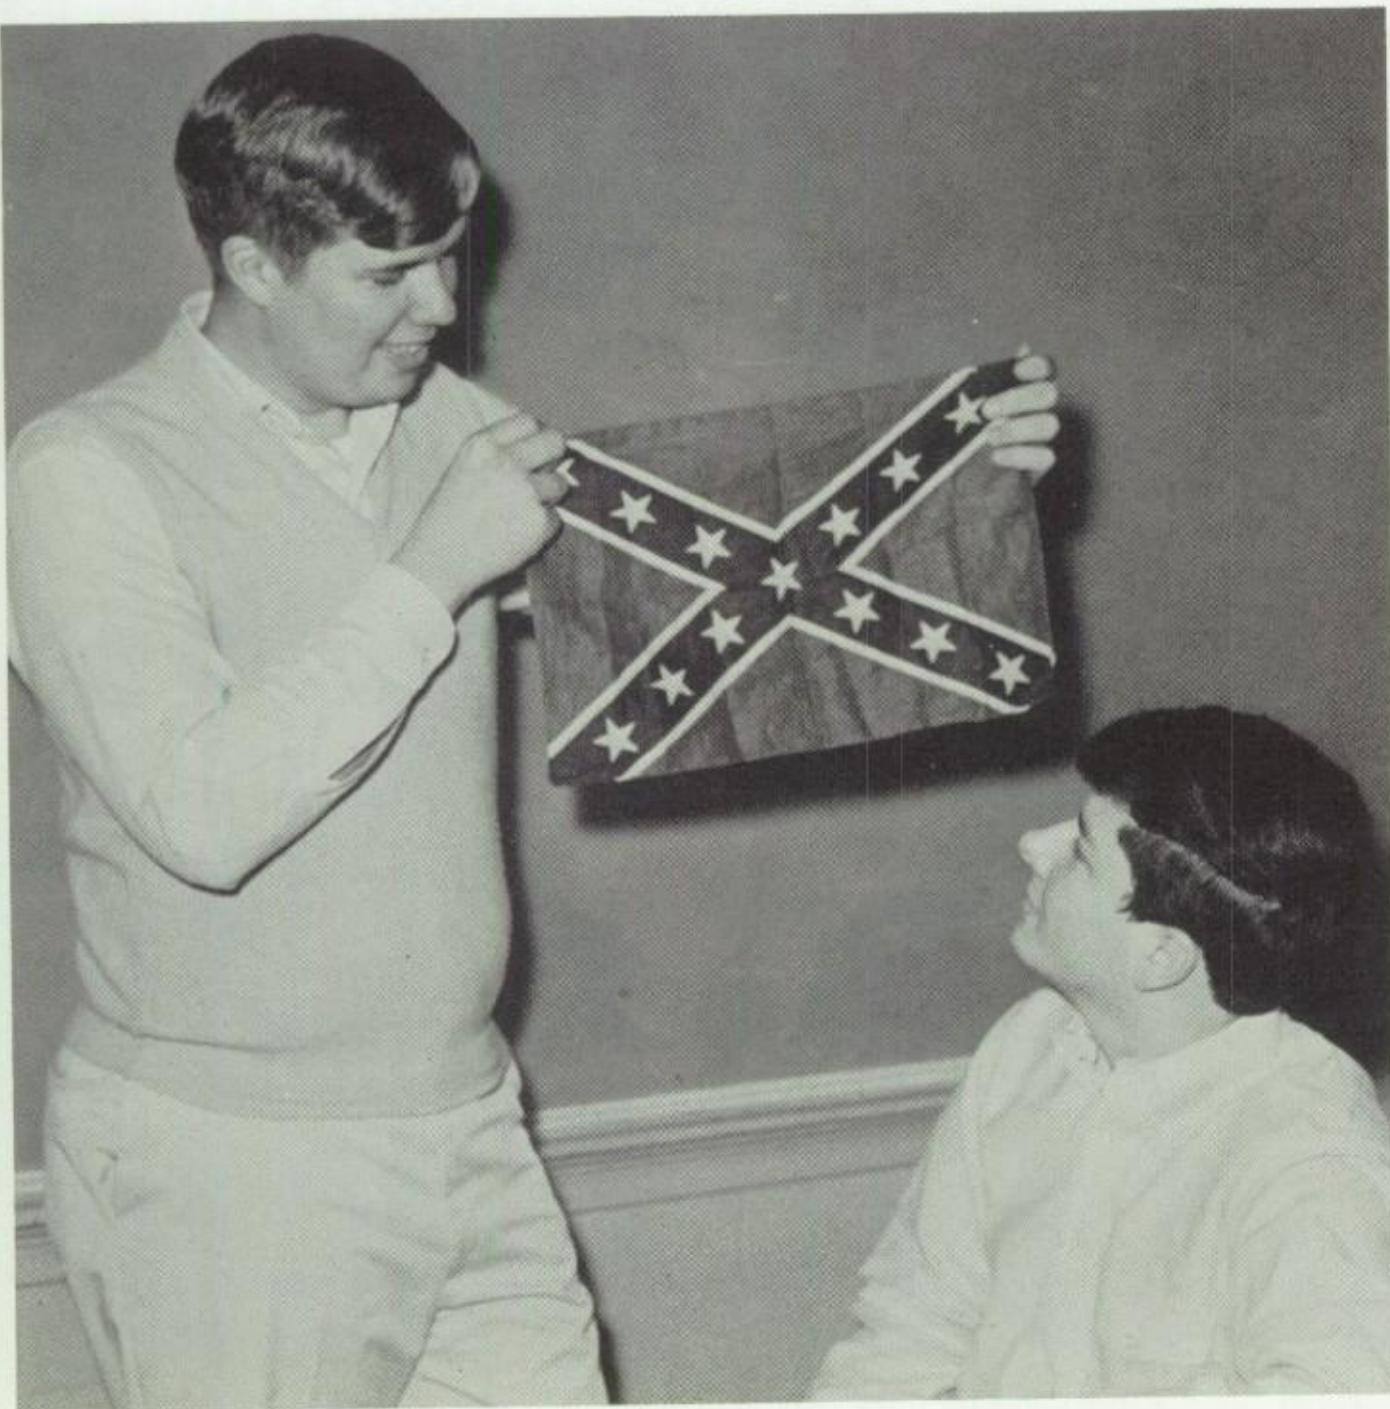

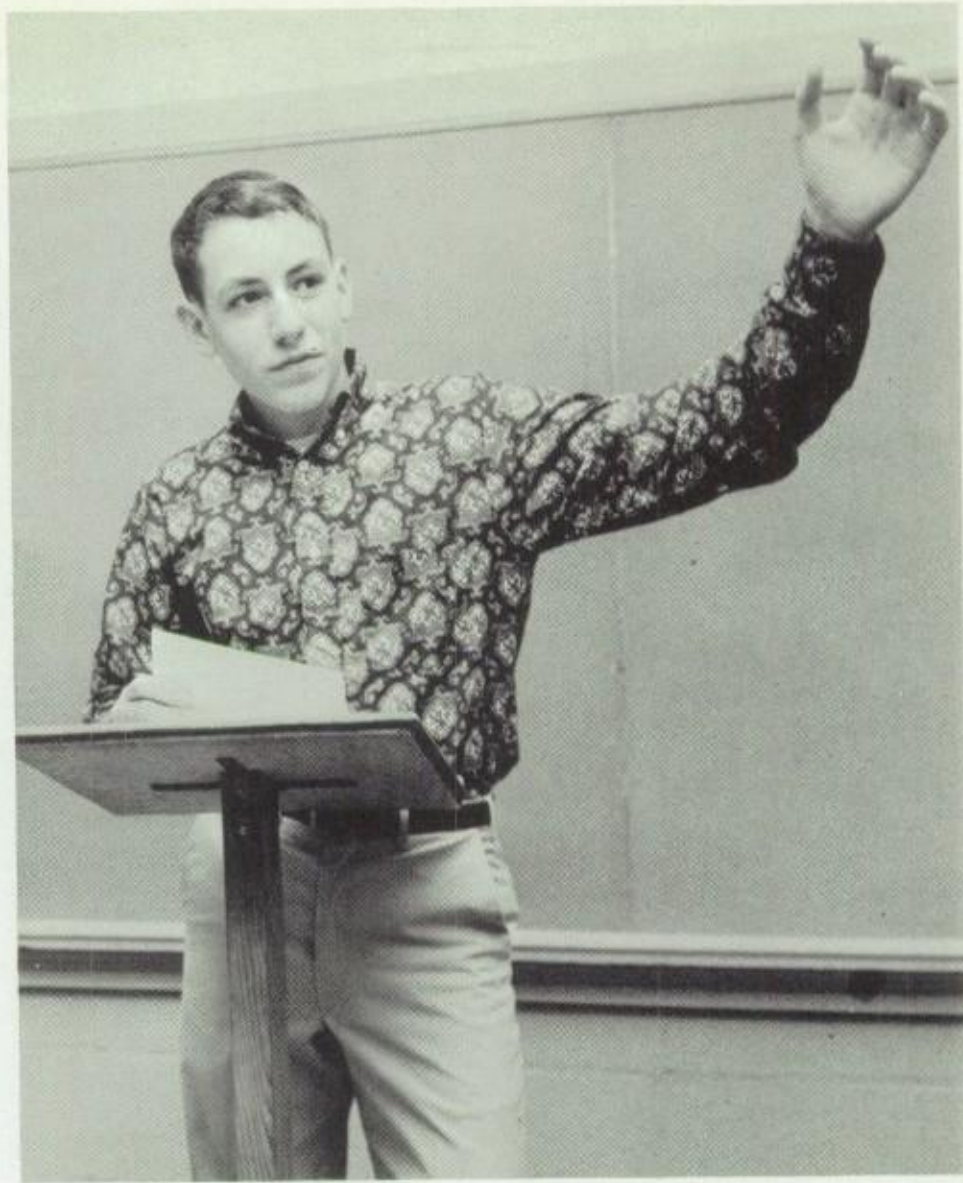

Other speakers on such subjects as Napoleon and Lawrence of Arabia helped History Club members gain insight into the memorable past.

Six members made up the Debate

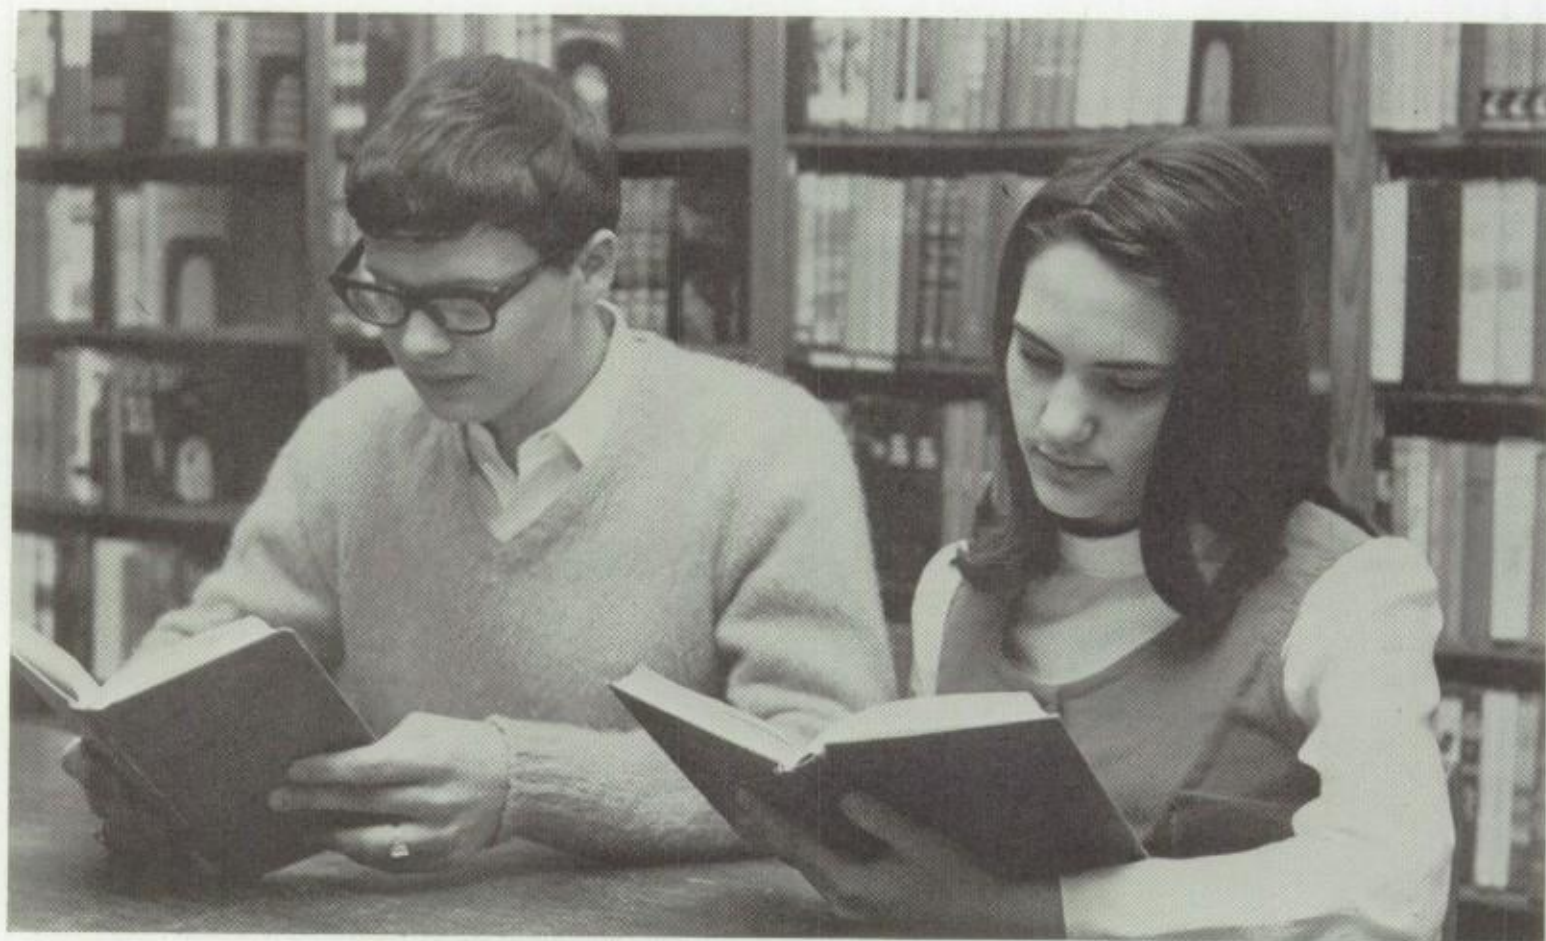

Club. These members participated in two major tournaments in Memphis, the Frayser Invitational on November 12 and White Station tournament on December 17. At Frayser the club won three out of four matches; at White Station, they won five out of six.

Four members also attended the Southern Invitational Tournament in Little Rock, Arkansas. They were Bill Sonnenburg, Larry Luton, Linda Vance, and Janet Goldeng.

Reading provides key to knowledge

Members of both the Junior and Senior Library Clubs were busy this year planning interesting projects. One of these projects was collecting $21.42. for needy children on Welfare. The money bought food and toys.

Each club member was an assistant in the library during his study hall. At this time he checked out books, decorated the bulletin boards, or arranged magazines.

Other activities were planning parties, contributing money to various school projects, a luncheon at the Four Flames Restaurant, and studying library procedure with the aid of the club sponsors.

"Deadlines are sacred." The motto of the FALCONER staff has been upheld for every publication. Kingsbury's newspaper, the FALCONER, had more pictures as well as more pages this year.

A new project of the FALCONER staff was sending editions of the paper to Kingsbury alumni fighting in Viet Nam. Subscriptions were taken for the paper from any relatives or friends who were interested.

Members of the staff attended various clinics such as the one held at Ellis Auditorium on November 18. At this clinic each member present went to classes pertaining to his special area of newspaper work.

TALON wins

"Yearbooks can't be built on hope!" claimed Mrs. Nesbitt and Mr. Rhodes, faculty advisors of the TALON. Members quickly learned this as they scurried about collecting payments, taking pictures and preparing layouts in time for the deadline.

To spark interest in the TALON, an assembly was held November 18 featuring various members in humorous slides. A spring banquet honored senior members and announced the staff positions for the coming year.

Memphis State's annual spring seminar allowed staffers to get first-hand advice from nationally known publishers. From June 26—July 1, a summer seminar at the University of Missouri was attended by Mrs. Nesbitt, Donna Harrington, editor-in-chief, Katy Hicks, assistant editor, and Susan Burt, business manager.

The staff is chosen on the basis of scholastic average, an administered test, and a personal interview with an advisor.

The publication was sold in April for twenty-five cents and had forty pages.

The staffers were chosen on the basis of a written paragraph and the enthusiasm they had for writing. Becky Haskell was chosen editor; Benny Harrison, managing editor. Bondie Armstrong was faculty sponsor.

Student Council earns place in KHS history

This year KHS experienced its first girl president of the Student Council, Mary Harbin, and the experience proved successful. Assemblies continued in their excellence featuring such groups as "Sing Out '67" and a panel of convicts who used themselves to prove that crime does not pay.

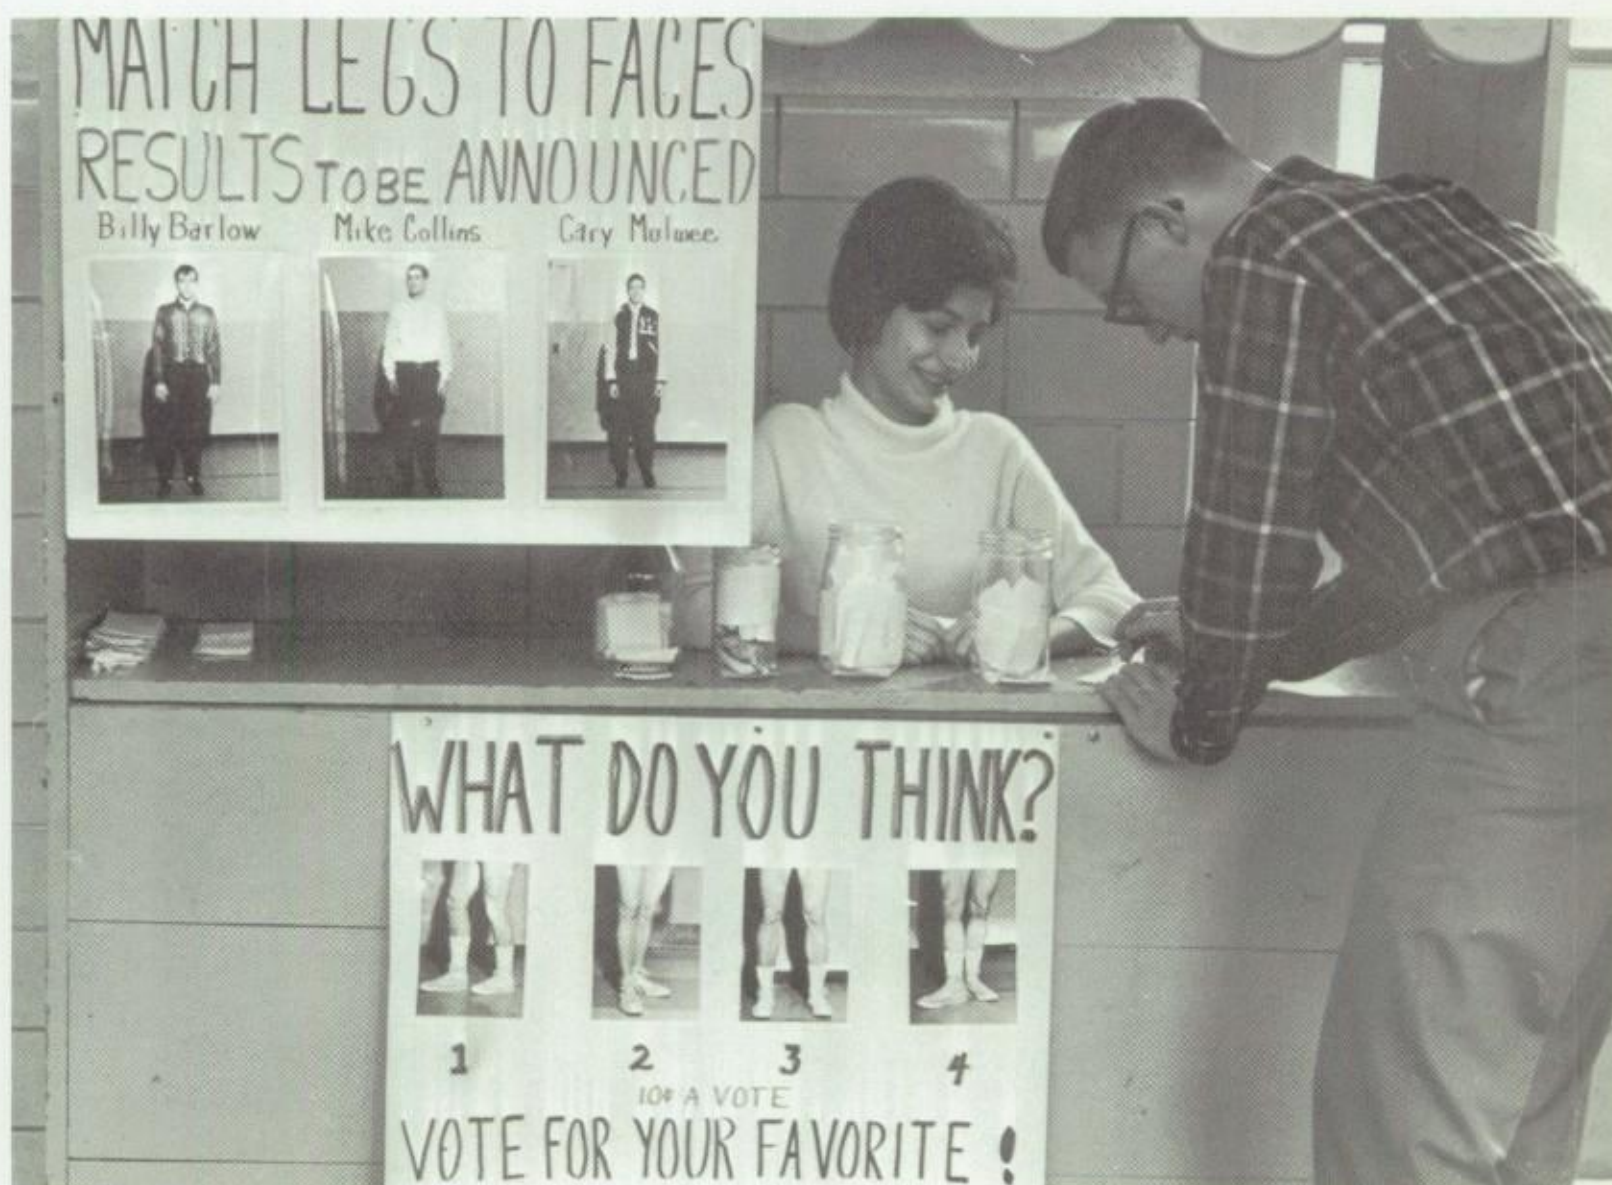

All officers of the Student Council were nominated by a convention elected by popular vote. All nominees had to have a B average and be supported by fellow students' speeches at the nominating convention.

Sale of wallets, popcorn, and Kingsbury key chains were money-making projects for the council treasury.

To make money for the March of Dimes, the Leg Contest was held February 20. Voters paid ten cents to choose the prettiest legs from among Billy Barlow's, Cary Mulwee's, Mike Collins', and Janice Lawrence's.

Stationery decorated with an etching of KHS was sold before Christmas, by the Senior Honor Society for money for the Kingsbury Scholarship, and the formal banquet was held at Cafe St. Clair, November 30.

An alumni tea was given before Christmas and the annual spring outing capped another successful year.

Junior Honor Society boasted 43 members and their year-long project was running the "Lost and Found."

The major project was competition in a state wide contest for the best community health project. Panels of students and doctors visited KHS's feeder schools and junior high to warn them of the hazards of smoking. A survey was made of grades 10-12 to see how many smoked and when they began smoking.

Slave Day saw members working hard, but a respite came at the Spring Banquet held in April.

Modern Music Masters, the honor society for the musically inclined, held its formal initiation November 15 in a school assembly. Initiates were chosen by Mr. Bousson, music teacher, on the basis of activities in school, and two character recommendations.

For the informal initiation, students dressed as characters in songs, sold toothpicks for a penny each (to raise money for the treasury), and sang songs at the request of all old members.

Six members participated in All-State Chorus March 15-17; all 24 members sang in the West Tennessee Chorus, and 10 members participated in the Murray State Chorus.

Thespians, a club for those interested in acting or speech, were participants in the Tennessee Area Conference of the National Thespian Society on October 8 at Messick. Members took part in the fall play, "The Night of January 16th," a very successful murder mystery.

Activities in past plays put on by the Speech Department and participation in speech tournaments earn points for prospective members, and a total of 10 points is required for membership.

P.E. classes build

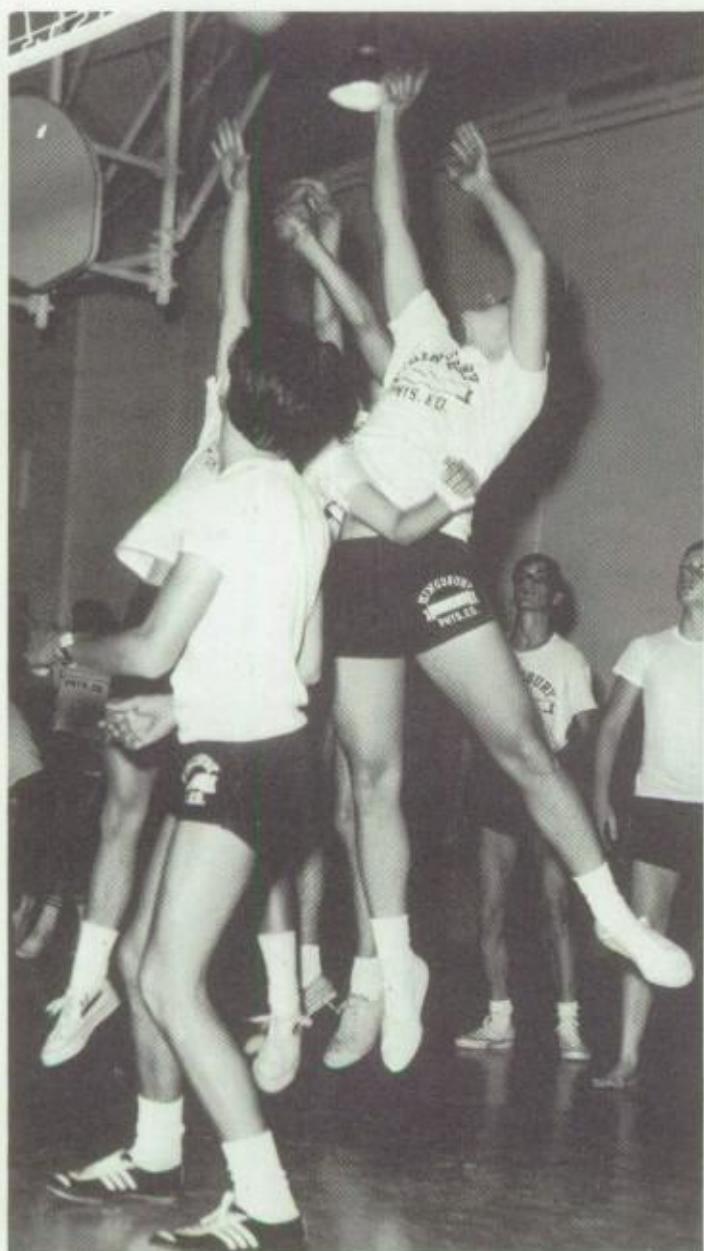

Kingsbury's physical education department plays as important part in the life of the students. P.E. classes provide a welcome break from the routine of other classes and provide students with recreation.

Students are taught the basic fundamentals of individual and team sports and they are taught to display good sportsmanship. The KHS gym comes alive with such sports as volleyball, basketball, tennis, and tumbling.

Girls are also taught home nursing and health and boys are instructed in first aid. All P.E. students are instructed in driver's training and folk dancing.

KHS stresses

Physical fitness is very important in this fast-moving world of today. To meet the requirements of living we must be in shape.

Physical fitness builds strong bodies for a fuller, healthier life. KHS students are required to take physical fitness tests from the seventh through the tenth grades. Students try such skills as the broad jump, push-ups, sit-ups, running track, and shuttle runs.

These physical fitness tests better develop and coordinate bodies so that students may participate in high school or college football, basketball or baseball.

Team effort produces

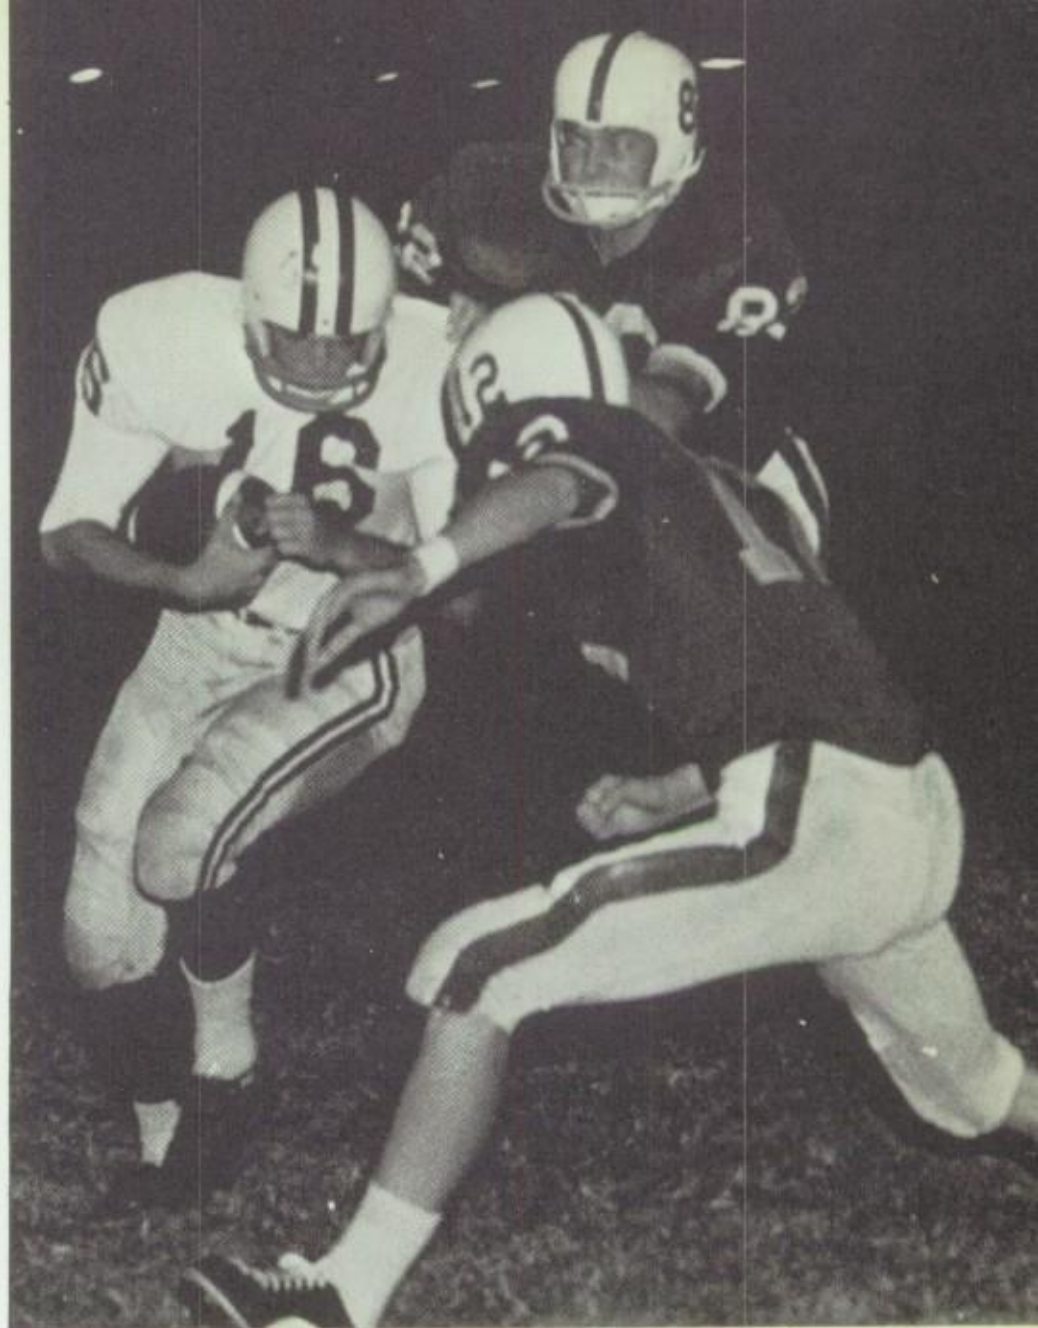

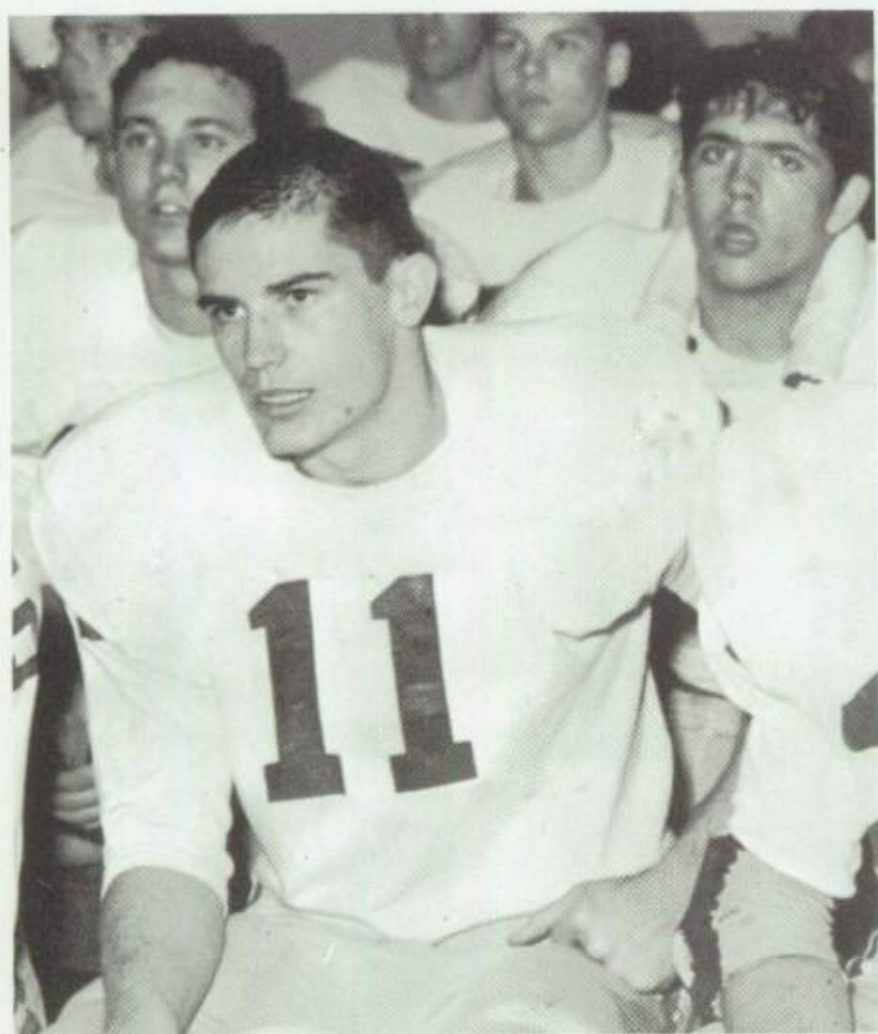

KHS 1966 football season was one of the best in the history of the school. Under the leadership of Coach Jack Lewis, the Falcon record showed five wins and five losses.

Triumph over the Frayser Rams was due to a field goal kicked by Allen Smith and pass interceptions by Walter High and Mike Collins.

Filled with the homecoming spirit, the team downed archenemy Treadwell 20-0. Billy Barlow, Buddy Fortune, and Eddie Thornton presented KHS with the 3 touchdowns.

Lower left: Jerry Britton (52) easily gets by Bishop Byrne players and shoots for another score.

4th in Knights of Columbus Tourney

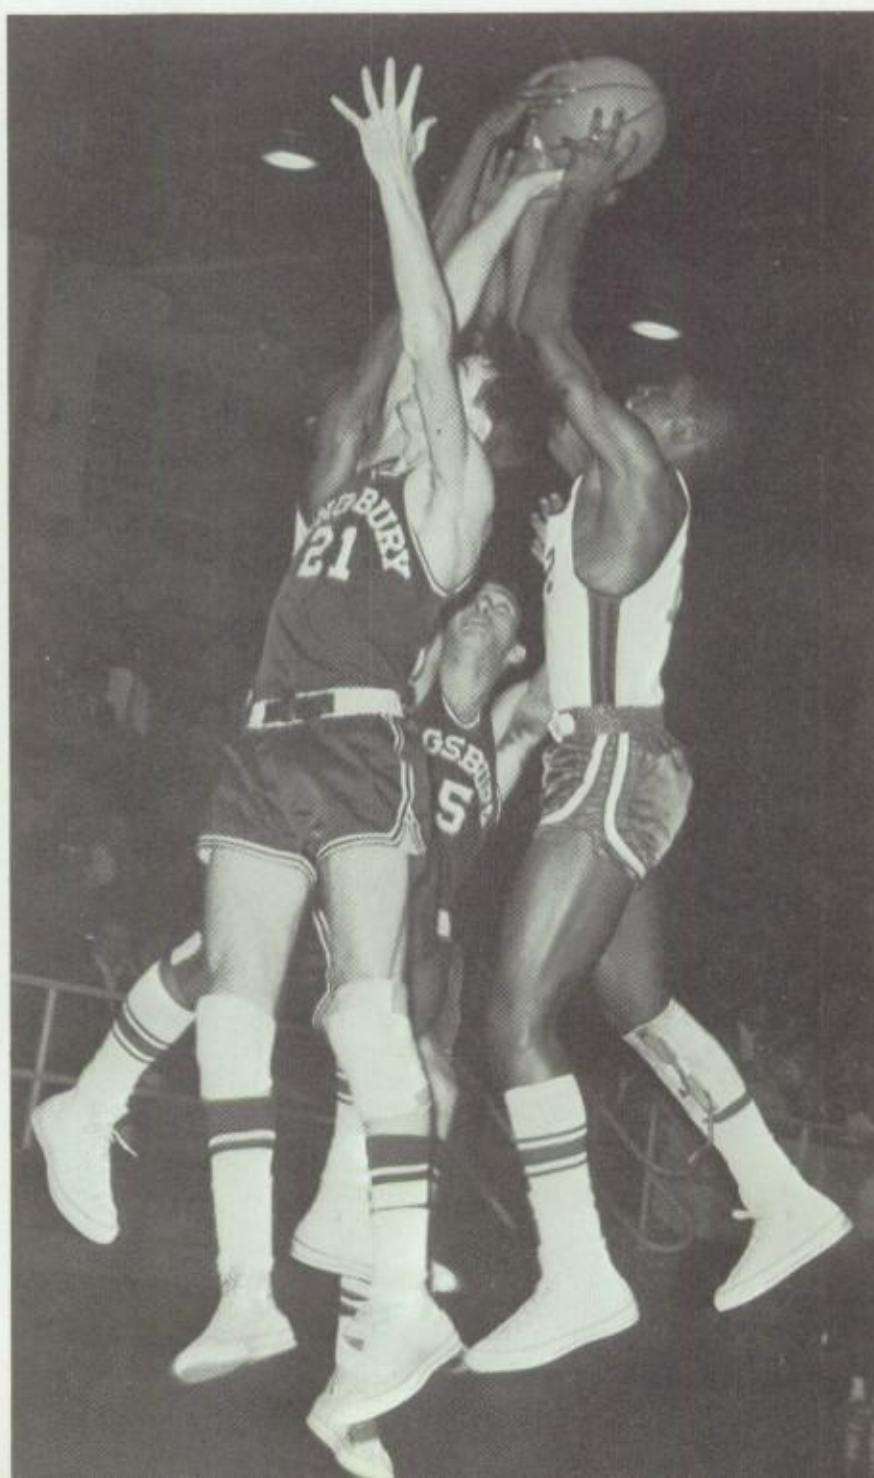

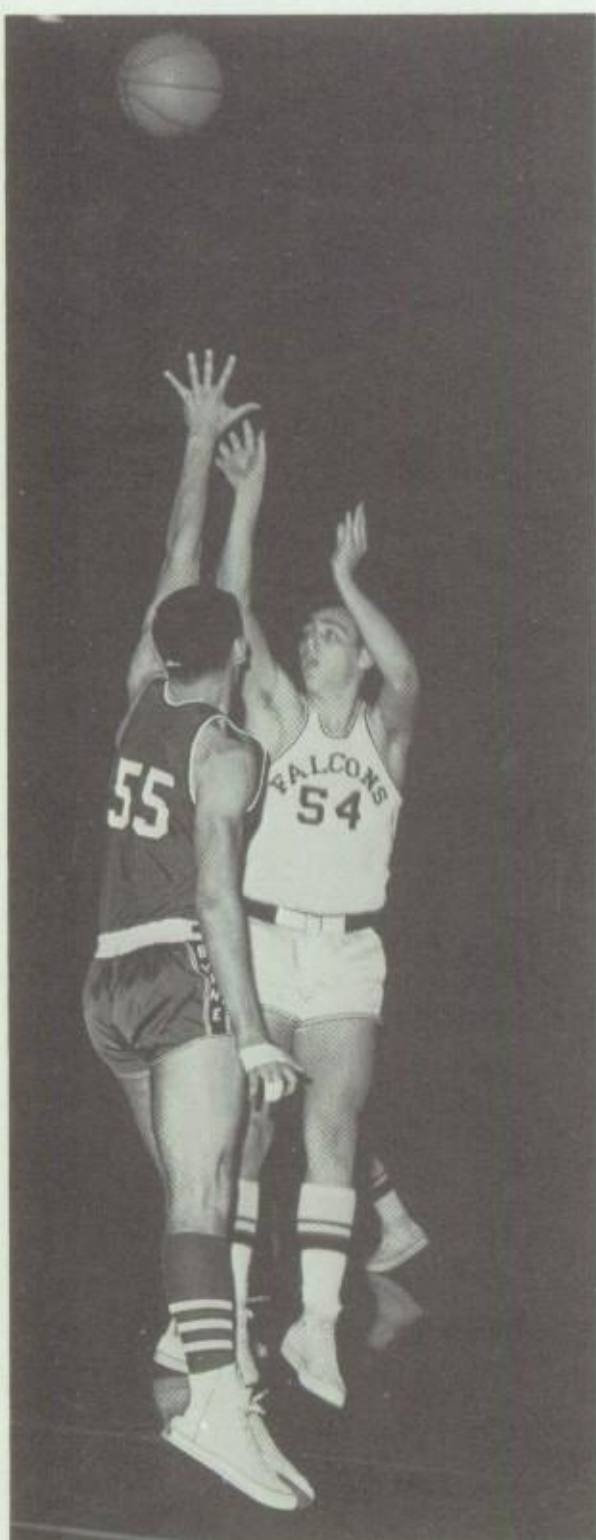

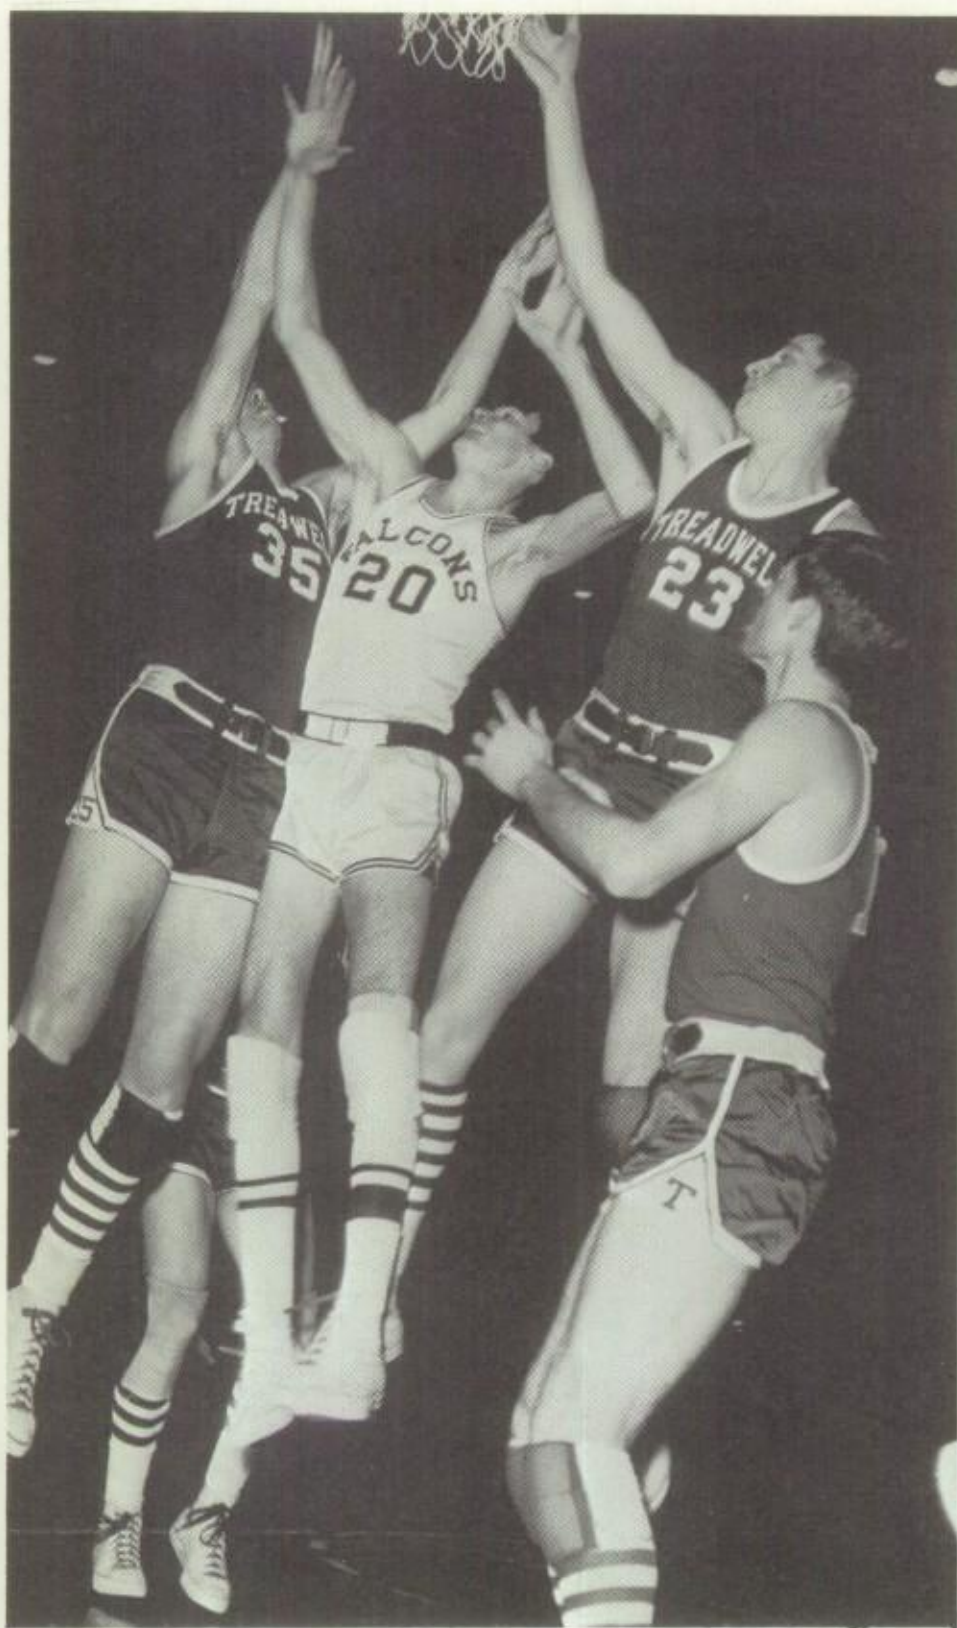

Knights of Columbus Tournament is always a highlight of a Memphis high school basketball season. This year Kingsbury was one of eight schools asked to play in this tenth annual invitation tourney.

Kingsbury's first game was against Bishop Byrne. KHS took the lead in the beginning and stayed ahead to beat Bishop Byrne, 65-34.

The next night the Falcons found themselves against Carver High School, who later became runner-ups in the K of C tournament. There are very few games like this one. The game was close and it took Carver two overtimes to beat KHS 52-44.

Overton High and Kingsbury had to play it out for 3rd place. Like the Carver game, this one was fast and action-packed. The Rebels barely squeezed past KHS 47-46.

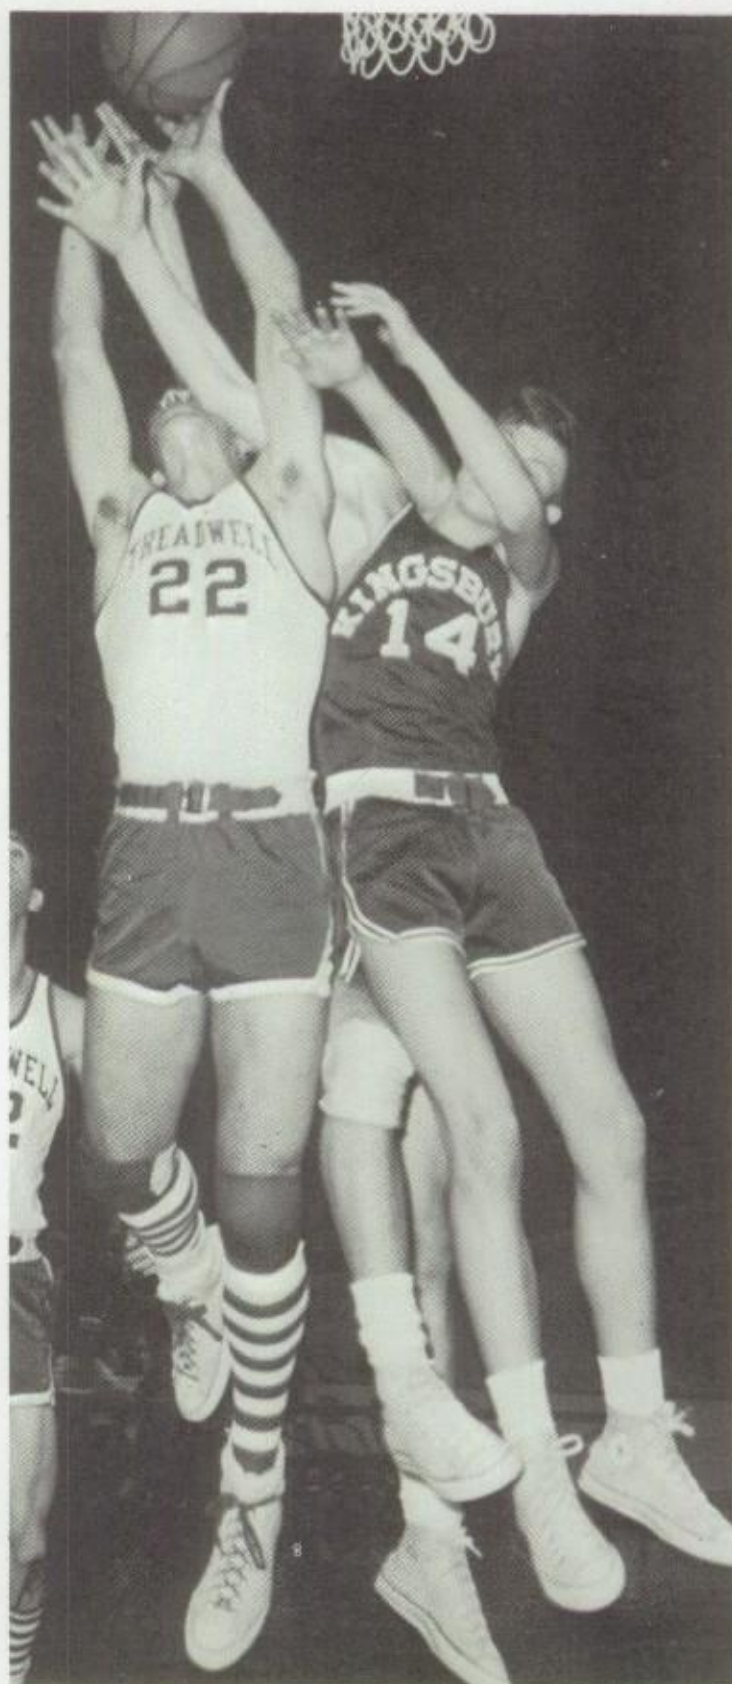

Gracious defeat

When Kingsbury plays Treadwell High, school spirit soars to a peak. It seems as though the whole school turns out to see these games. In 1966 the Mid-South Coliseum had to be rented in order to hold the spectators. This season KHS played their arch-rival twice at the Coliseum.

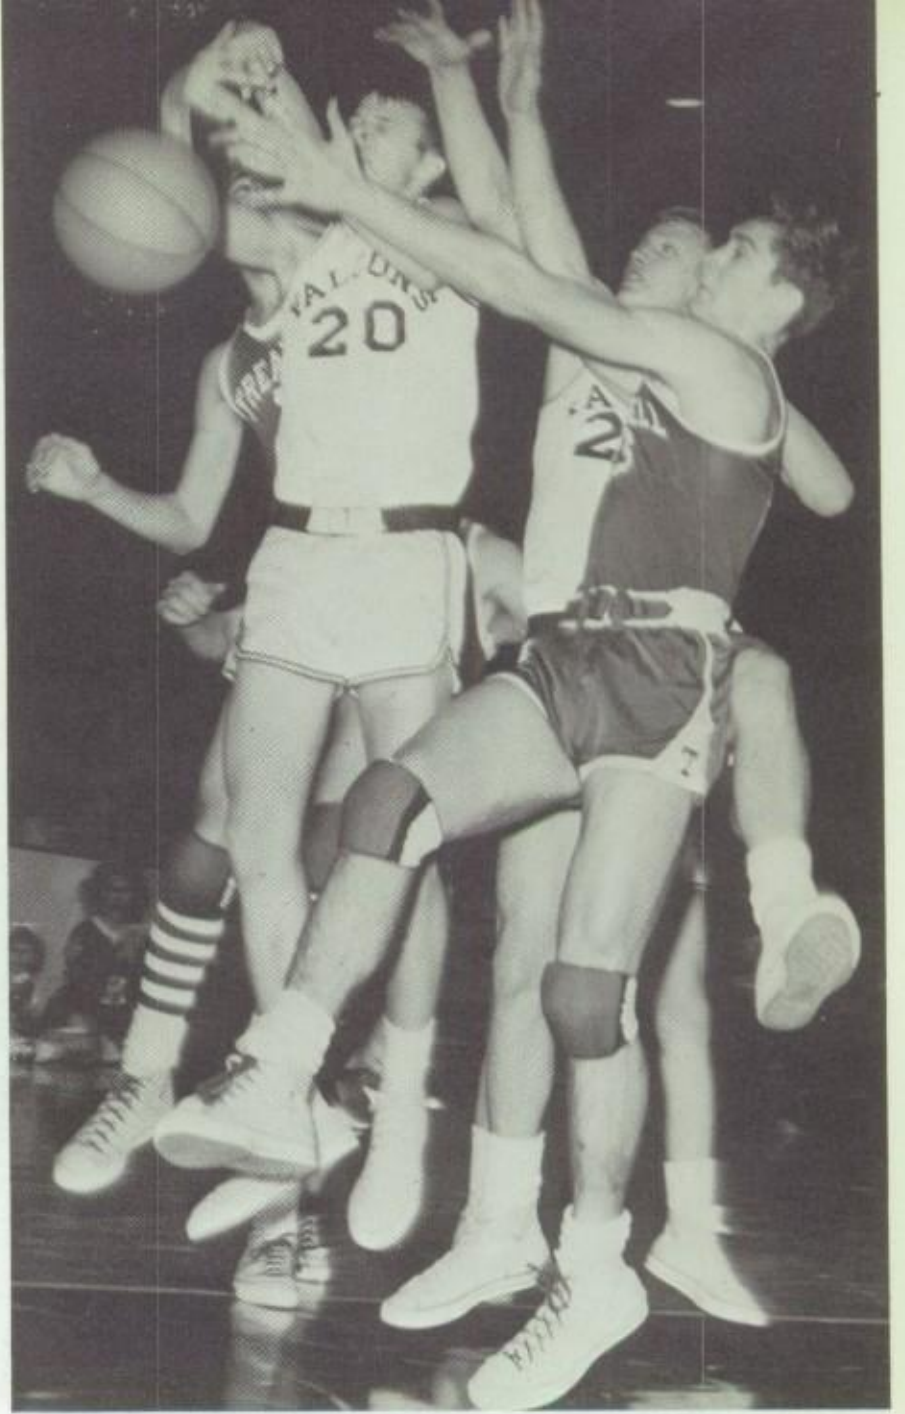

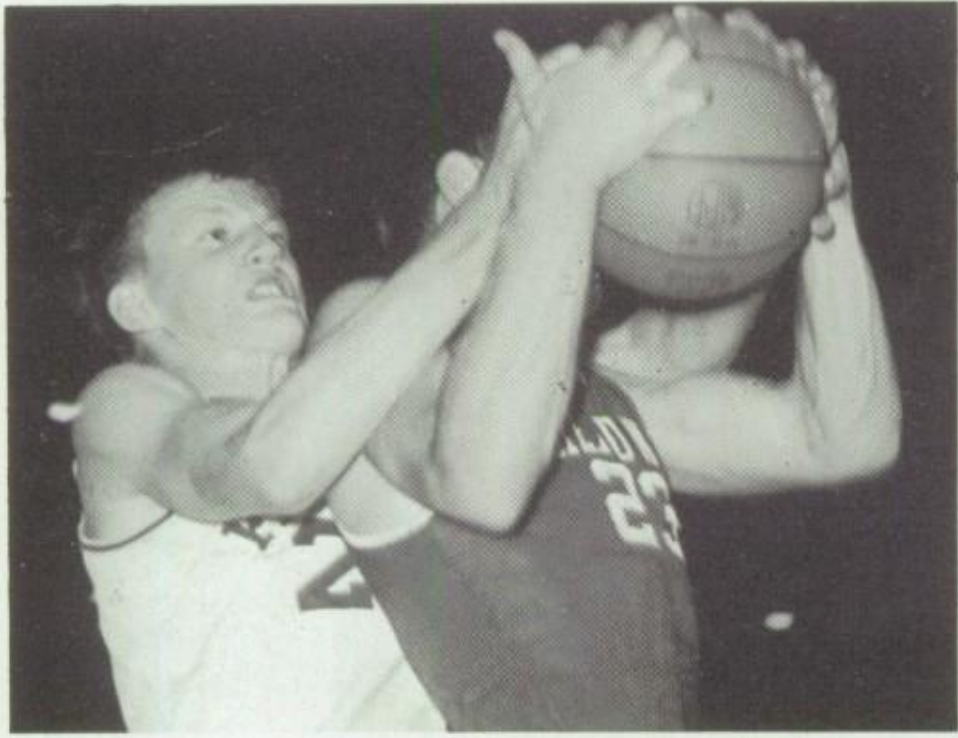

Both games were action-packed. Many people thought that KHS would win the 1st match but a sudden burst of speed allowed Treadwell to pull ahead to a 61-55 victory.

More than 3,000 people came to see the 2nd game. Kingsbury lost, this time 75-65.

Upper left: Howard Bishop (20) is surrounded by Eagles as he attempts to block a basket score. Center right: Billy Reece (in white uniform) and a Treadwell Eagle have a difference of opinion concerning which team should gain possession of the ball. Far right: Two Treadwell players and Billy Reece (22) desperately grab for the ball which has been knocked out of Johnny Hathcock's (20) hands. Lower right: As John Bishop (50) vainly keeps the ball from Eagle claws, Vann Branch (32) and Howard Bishop (20) wonder what they can do to help. Lower left: Mike Collins (14) is entangled as he tries to regain the ball for Kingsbury.

Junior Falcons ended the season with a 7-5 record. The baby Falcons were under the direction of Coach Larry Rhodes.

Although they had a very close season, the Junior Falcons were able to win with a combination of teamwork, tactics and hard work. The team finished third in Division I and received the district's sportsmanship trophy.

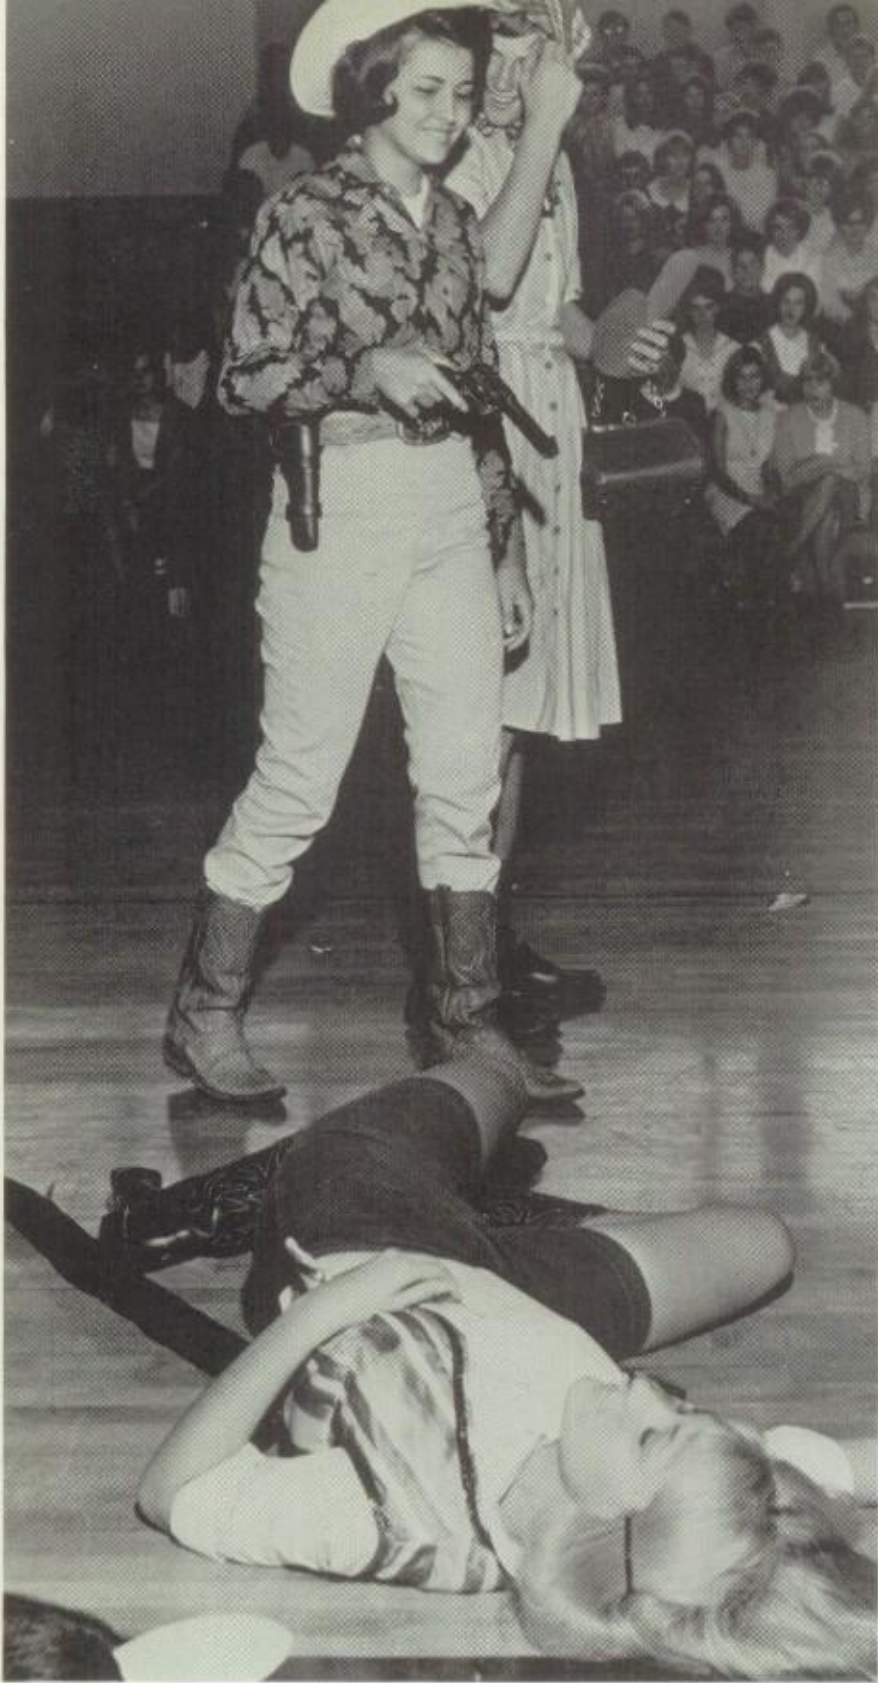

Two of the junior high players, Ray De-Priest and Mike Stapp, were chosen to the All-District team and voted by the KHS junior high team as the most valuable players.

support teams and boost spirit

Senior high KHS cheerleaders do more than cheer for their school. Every pep rally is different and enjoyable due to their novel skits which show the Falcons are gr-r-reat!

Every summer the girls attend cheerleading camp at the University of Mississippi. Besides bringing back new cheers, these nine girls presented Kingsbury with a spirit stick which they won at camp. At every pep rally each class competed for the honor of carrying the stick to the next game.

Kingsbury's 1966-67 cheerleaders are composed of co-captains Jeannie Bright and Janice Lawrence, Nancy Arnold, Brenda Bivens, Mary Harbin, Donna Harrington, Sarah Joyner, Donna Rhodes, Lorraine Sims, and alternate Glenda Chapman.

"Two bits! Four bits! Six bits, a dollar!
All for Kingsbury stand up and holler!"

This is one of many cheers which Kingsbury cheerleaders learn. The Junior High cheerleaders are chosen the spring before the school year they are to cheer, while peewee cheerleaders are selected in the fall from seventh and eighth grade girls.

Science — the Key to production or destruction

Acquiring a new biology laboratory was a dream come true for the science department this year. It provided a room for each teacher with new modern facilities. The tables had sinks, gas outlets, and storage drawers. More dissection and experimentation could be performed with the addition of this new lab.

Chemistry students studied the composition of matter. They gained a knowledge of the atomic structure of elements and learned to write equations summarizing experiments.

Studying energy and matter and their transformation was the course of study in physics. A class of 27 boys gained a knowledge of the physical forces of nature through book study and experiments. They studied the various principles of friction, sound, and color.

A world of knowledge has been gained through the study of general science. Students learned the basic principles of science and gained a preparation for specialized fields such as biology, chemistry, and physics.

Thought + configuration = mathematical knowledge

Kingsbury's mathematics department reached new materialistic heights this year with the addition of a laboratory located in Mrs. North's room. Included in the laboratory were desks with logarithm tables, formulas, and graphs printed on the surface of each. Also included were a teacher's desk, cabinets, and models of geometric figures.

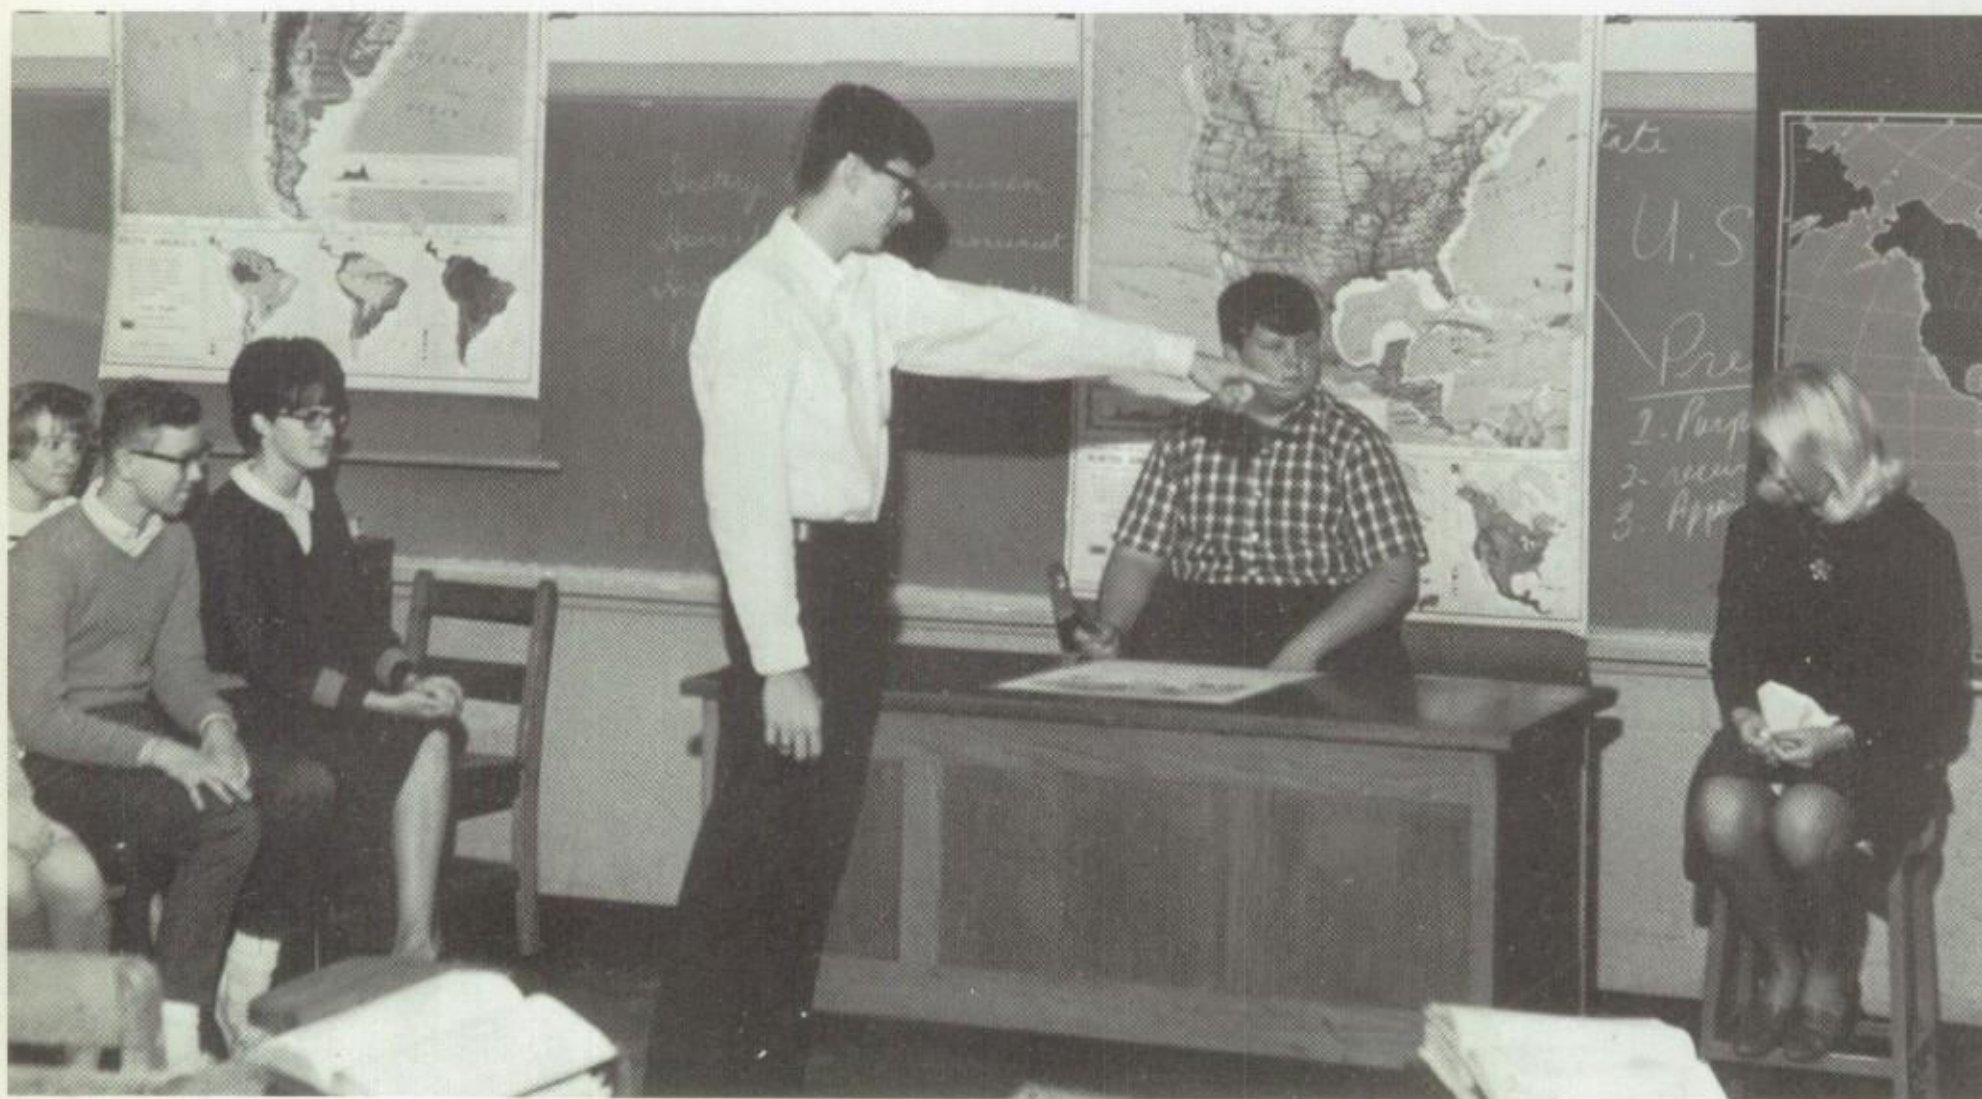

Courses in mathematics ranged from the basic fundamentals of arithmetic to the complexities of advanced trigonometric equations. Every mathematic course is designed to challenge the student's mind and develop his sense of reasoning.

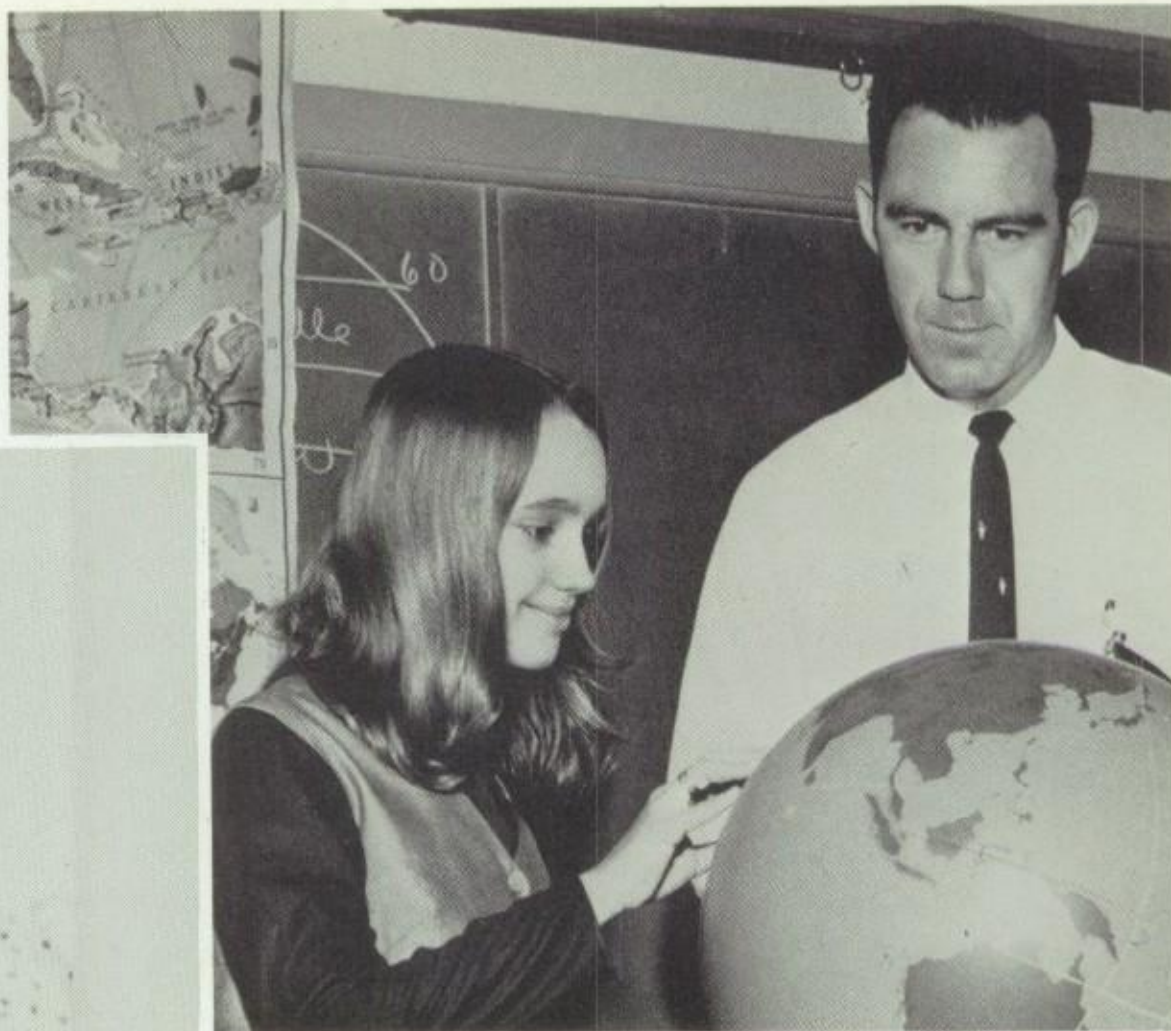

Problems of today demand tomorrow's answers

Guest speakers, films, and lectures enriched the social studies program at KHS. This year Mrs. Robert Sonnenburg, Republican candidate for the state legislature, spoke to civics classes on Tennessee's voting requirements and procedure. Film topics ranged from crop irrigation to Communism.

In order to provide future voters with a thorough knowledge of United States' heritage, all students were required to take American history in their junior or senior year.

For those particularly interested in social studies, a variety of courses were offered. Geography taught the material aspects of the country; students taking government analysed the laws governing the country.

English affords means of communication ʌ ɔt 'ɪz blæk. Would you believe this is English? It is written in the phonemic symbols which were studied by Level Three students. Translation. The coat is black.

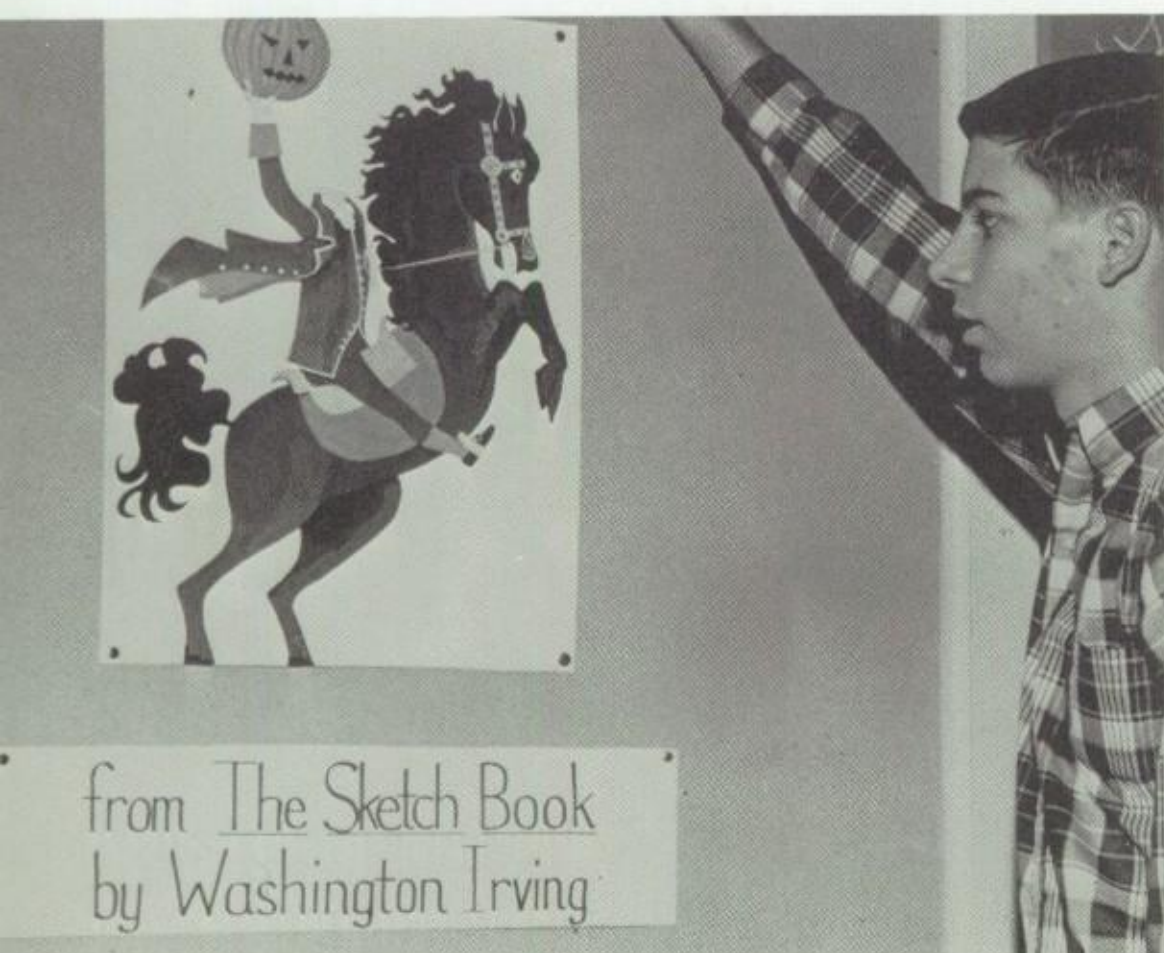

To improve writing abilities many students were taught sentence patterns. These enabled students to write clearer and more meaningful sentences.

New grammar and literature books were purchased this year. Through the use of these new books students gained a more thorough background in grammar. The study of literature included the works of classical and modern authors such as Shakespeare, Dickens and Maugham.

Modern facilities aid learning

Very often through the study of modern languages, French and Spanish, students have developed an interest in foreign affairs and policies.

This year a modern laboratory was completed; thus, students were able to correct oral pronunciation. Through the study of grammar, the structure and basic fundamentals of the language were learned.

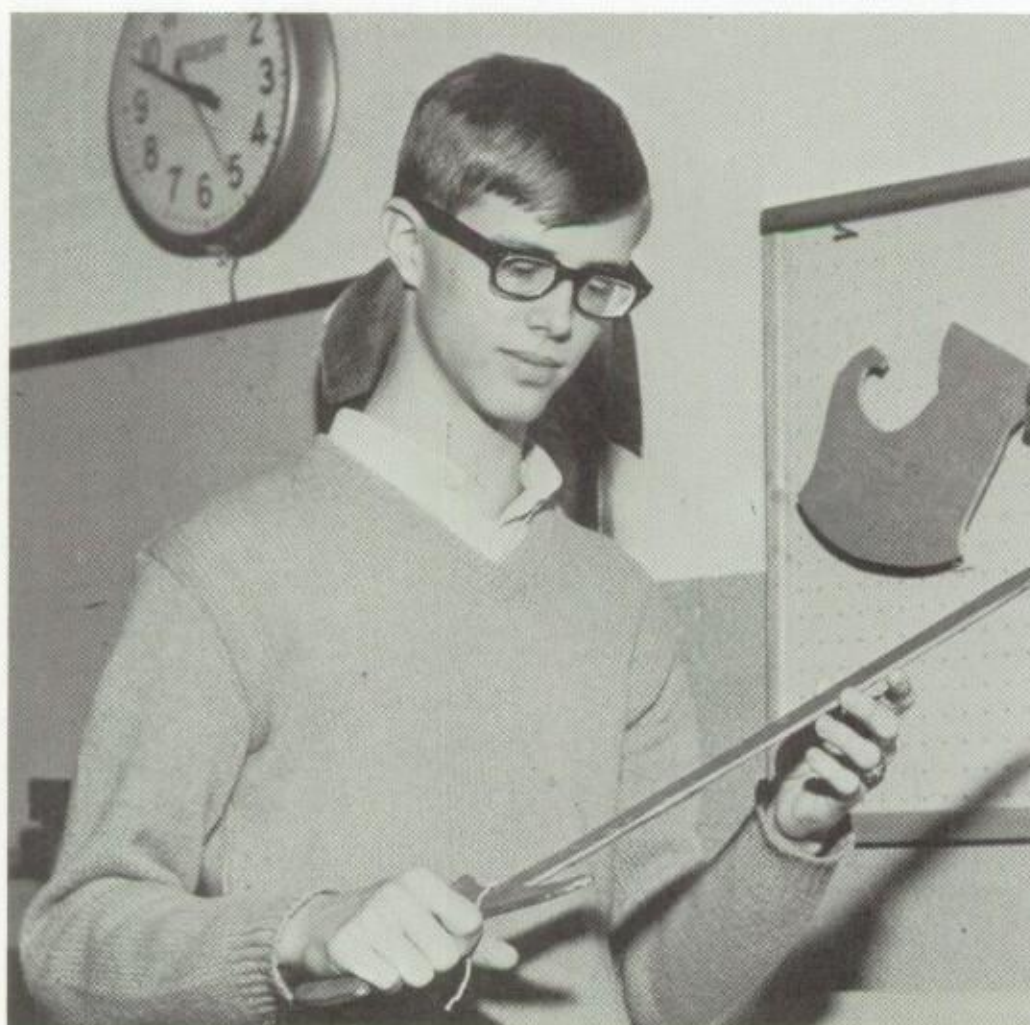

This year French students sang French Christmas carols at LeBonheur Children's Hospital. By viewing travel films, students saw some of the most famous cities in the world as well as scenic countryside.

Students developed a taste for Spanish food by eating at Pancho's, where they often went as a group. At Christmas, Spanish students looked forward to singing Spanish Christmas carols with the Kings' Daughters.

Latin and speech students improve word usage

Speech students learned the enunciation of words by giving speeches which ranged in topic from 18th century fashions to Presidential campaign speeches. By presenting plays and pantomimes, speech students learned to use body movements and facial expressions effectively.

Latin students developed a larger vocabulary as many English words are derived from Latin. Students taking fourth year Latin are entitled to membership in Eta-Sigma-Phi, an honorary Latin society.

Musicians speak international languages

Singing in assemblies, producing an annual Christmas program, and playing at football games were just a few of the jobs assumed by the music department.

The senior chorus, under the direction of Mr. Bousson, has sent participants to the West Tennessee State chorus. Broadway musicals, produced each spring, have been the delight of the student body.

"Artaban," the story of the other wise man, was presented by the seventh and eighth graders on December 5. The seventh grade chorus, the Eighth Notes, and the junior high singers completed the activities of the junior high music department.

Capturing the crowd's attention during halftime at the homecoming game was the senior high band. As the band played, the majorettes twirled and carried a flaming sign spelling out "Falcons."

The band also assisted in promoting spirit by playing at pep rallies.

Imagination, ingenuity, and proper know-how have been the tools of a good art student. Pottery, sketching, and painting were all a part of the activities of the senior art department this year.

Junior high art students made mosaics and learned the principles of color and line. Collages, an abstract form of art made by pasting various materials to paper to form a picture, created a new challenge to the seventh and eighth graders. Much of the work of the junior high students is displayed in the senior high halls.

Ready-made sales force in class

Delivering cakes, setting up display windows, and working as regular employees were all a part of the distributing education program offered at Kingsbury this year.

These students were trained to work as sales employees at various stores in the city. They were taught sales techniques, proper conduct during job interviews, and given a general insight into the sales and distribution profession.

Office occupations, a three hour course which was offered for the first time this year, consisted of two classes of 40 seniors. Requirements for this course included at least one or two years in typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping.

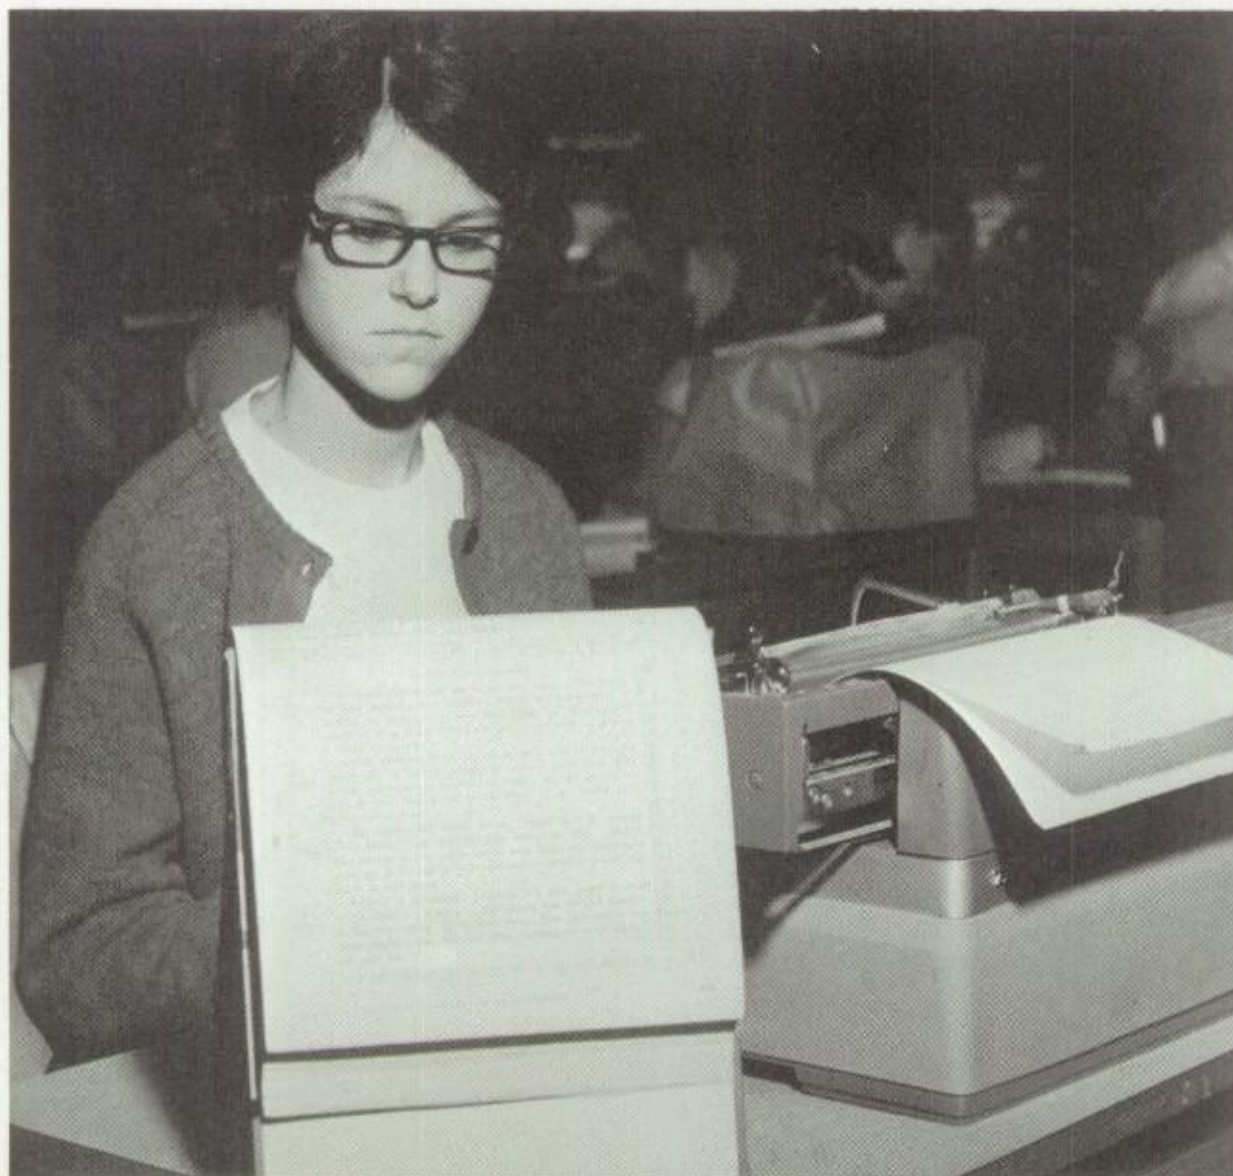

Students who took this course learned to operate adding machines and IBM machines, as well as good office practices. Students completing the course received two credits.

Commerce builds business aptitude

Should teenagers be interested in business courses? Each year they spend millions of dollars on records and fads. A bookkeeping course would be useful in keeping account of their expenditures, planning a budget, and starting a savings program.

Typing has proved a valuable course for students seeking a college education or business career. Typing themes, reports, and term papers has been beneficial to college students. Many well paying jobs have been offered to proficient typists.

Taking notes in class were simplified by shorthand. Dictation drills increased the speed and accuracy of students.

Practical experience vital

Pans clanging and humming sewing machines characterized the home economics department. Students learned to manage a home, to plan nutritious meals, and to create wardrobes.

A new home economics course called child development was introduced to Kingsbury this year. Each day 30 senior home ec girls participated in this course, having one hour of classroom work and one hour as kindergarten assistants. This course introduced them to possible careers as elementary school teachers.

Drafting, wood, and metal shop make up the industrial arts department. Making blueprints of houses and machines was the course of study in the classes. Projects such as tie racks, bookcases, and gun racks were the work of shop students.

Industrial arts courses prepared students in fields of engineering and architecture. They have also been beneficial to students going into vocations such as plumbing and welding.

Gym develops sound minds and strong bodies

Squeals of excitement and joy, the rhythmic clapping of hands, and the monotonous dribble of basketballs created a world of special sounds in physical education classes.

Ninth and tenth grade girls studied modern dancing for a contrast in activities this year. After learning basic steps, the students divided into smaller groups and created routines. They danced to music of their choosing and brought costumes to create variety and color.

Basketball, softball, and volleyball were a major part of the activities in gym classes. A six weeks was also devoted to studying health and first aid.

Mr. Billingsley, the walking principal, received his bachelor and master's degrees from Memphis State University. He is working for his doctorate from the University of Tennessee under the instruction of Kingsbury's former principal, Dr. John Crothers.

Mr. Billingsley came from Overton High School where he was social studies teacher and later assistant principal.

Miss Nichols, assistant principal, reigns over the junior high. She received her Bachelor of Arts from Southwestern at Memphis and the Master of Social Science from the University of Mississippi.

Chief disciplinarian Mr. Vinson assigns work in the cafeteria to those guilty of habitual tardiness and absence. He received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees from Memphis State University and George Peabody College for Teachers.

Kingsbury High PTA

Objects . . .

To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community.

To raise the standards of home life.

To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.

To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.

To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

New TALON

At last! The TALON was here. On Tuesday, May 23, the 1966-67 Talon staff held the annual autograph party. Eager students met in the school auditorium at 7 o'clock for the presentation of the 1967 TALON by Mr. Donald Rhodes, co-sponsor. Music was provided by "The Poor Souls."

TALONS were distributed to the faculty members attending the party, senior staff members, Principal Frank Billingsley, and honored guest Dr. John Crothers.

Door prizes were awarded before students were directed to the junior and senior cafeterias to pick up their books.

Spring fever generates new activities

Upper left: Mrs. Jacobson races after the ball during the Ridiculous Night basketball game between the Booster Club and the teachers. When asked who won Mrs. Jacobson replied, "The teachers, but they called it a tie." Upper right: Jeannie Bright lovingly watches her "son" Ronnie Bunnell, as "Papa" Joe Williams relaxes. Lower right: With the threat of war, represented by Warren Bower and Joe Williams, over his head, Ronnie Bunnell explains to Janice Lawrence that marriage must wait. Center right: Tex Schwartz (center) brings Ronnie Bunnell and Janice Lawrence their favorite root-beer float during "Confetti," the Speech department's spring production. Lower left: Booster Club members relax after a hard game.

Each year parents, teachers, and students flock to the KHS gym for Ridiculous Night. Teachers did everything, including playing basketball against a parents' team. Other entertainment was provided by the pee wee basketball team.

To add to the spring fun, the Speech Department produced "Confetti," a one-act play designed to present today's teenager and his problems.

Organizations carry out spring functions

This year the annual sports banquet was held at the Mark Twain Cafeteria. All those involved with the athletic department were invited.

After the student election, a special assembly was held in which Dale Nevels introduced his new Student Council staff.

The Junior and Senior Honor Societies held their annual induction ceremonies. Students were chosen for their outstanding leadership, character, service, and academic ability.

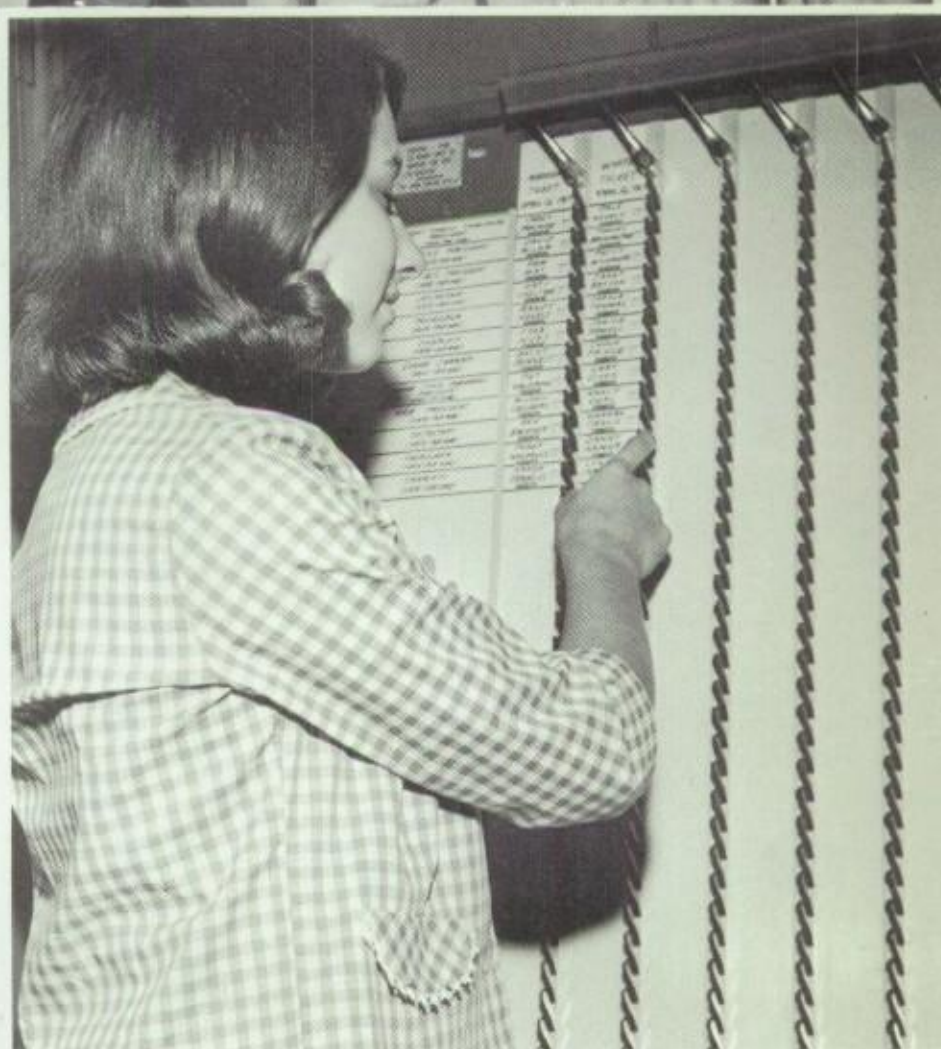

April elections

Maroon vs. White! All students and teachers involved with one of the tickets worked hard to gather votes for their ticket. Hundreds of signs hung on bulletin boards, walls, and stair wells throughout the school. This year students used Shelby County voting machines to cast their votes and Dale Nevels was elected the new Student Council president.

pit maroon against white

"Don't Marry Me," "I Enjoy Being a Girl," "Grant Avenue," and "Like a God" highlighted the musical "Flower Drum Song." Wang Ta, played by Ronald Gentry, tried to explain to his Chinese uncle that he was old enough to pick his own bride. But Ronald found out the only girl for him was the one his uncle had selected for him.

Receiving awards for outstanding performances were Tommy Winberry, Cheryl Hamby, Janice Lawrence, Becky Haskell, Beverly Fleet, and the stage crew. The cast and crew gave Mr. and Mrs. Bousson a money tree in recognition of their directing and managing the annual senior production.

Mardi Gras theme for Senior Banquet

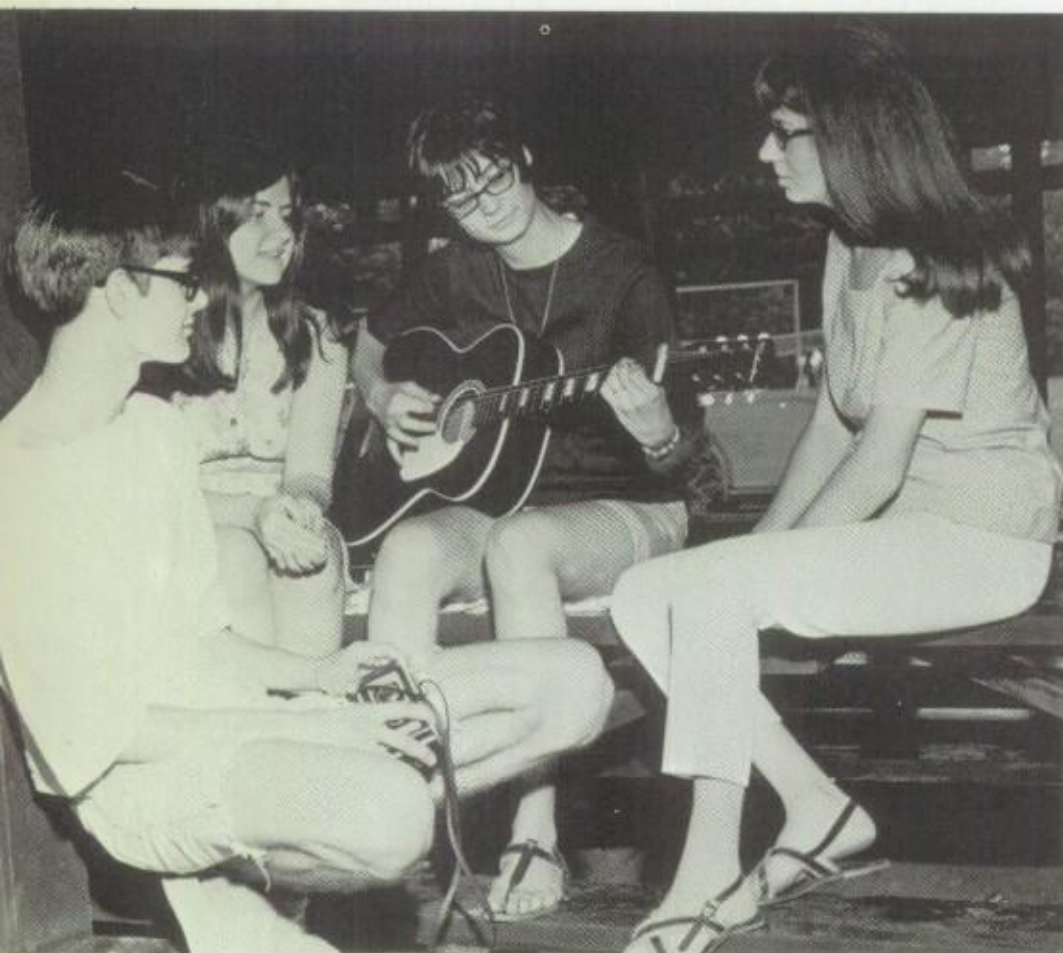

The Senior Banquet, held April 21, highlighted the year. Seniors and their dates flocked to the Top of the 100 for food and fun. Balloons hung from the ceiling and colorful masks lay on the tables.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sharp, Dr. and Mrs. John Crothers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Billingsley, and many of the senior home-room teachers and their families.

Swimming, tennis, and dancing

Seniors loaded into busses and headed for Ellendale on May 19. Playing tennis and badminton, swimming, and just "goofing off" created huge appetites, but that was just as well, for there was plenty to eat.

A juke box was placed on the open air pavilion playing records dating back to 1960 when the seniors were seventh graders. A severe thunderstorm later that night dampened everything but the gaiety of the class and their faculty chaperones.

Class urged to seek great goals

On Sunday, May 21, the 1967 graduating class met at the high school auditorium for Baccalaureate. The invocation was given by junior class president, Nancy Deal. Walter High, Student Council vice-president, introduced Rev. Charles Stewart from Highland Heights Methodist Church, the guest speaker.

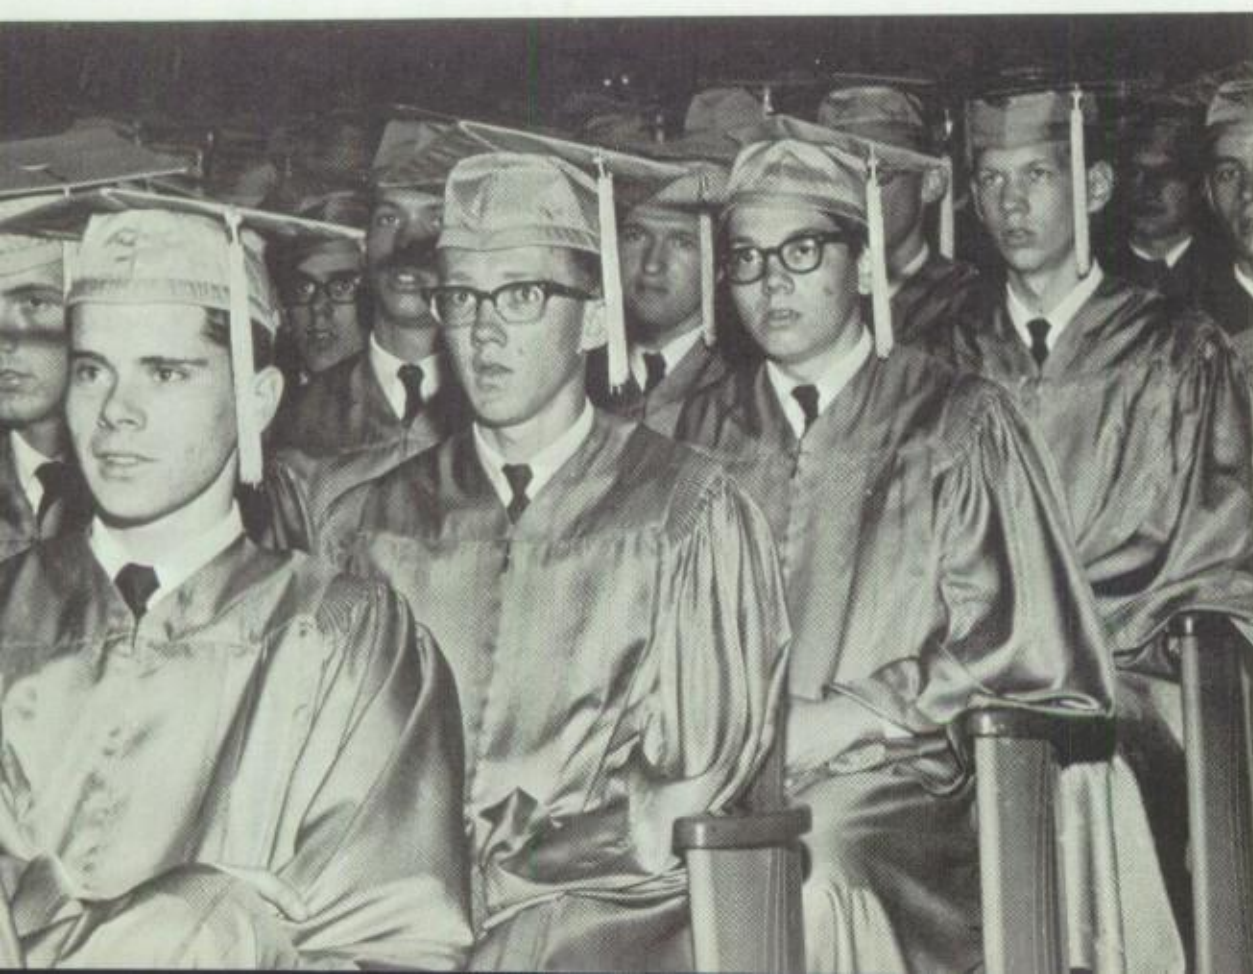

Rev. Stewart wished the seniors success in the future and encouraged them to pursue their goals.

The chorus sang "Lead On, O King Eternal" for the recessional.

bring an end to school days

After Baccalaureate, Seniors hurried to Mrs. Lucretia Scrivner's for a tea, a party which has become a spring tradition at KHS. Cherry fruit punch and small white cakes with maroon K's were served. Many students kept the napkins on which Kingsbury High School was engraved in gold.

Then came the final event—graduation. After the invocation by Dixie Arrington, Jeannie Bright welcomed parents and guests. Miss Nichols read the list of those receiving honors and awards and Mr. Lee Thompson awarded the diplomas. The Senior class sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and the "Alma Mater."

After twelve long years of blood, sweat and tears, happy Seniors graduated on May 24, 1967. Seniors marched in to "Pomp and Circumstance" as parents tried to find their son or daughter. Jeannie Bright, Senior class president, welcomed the parents and friends of the graduates. Honors and awards were read and songs were sung.

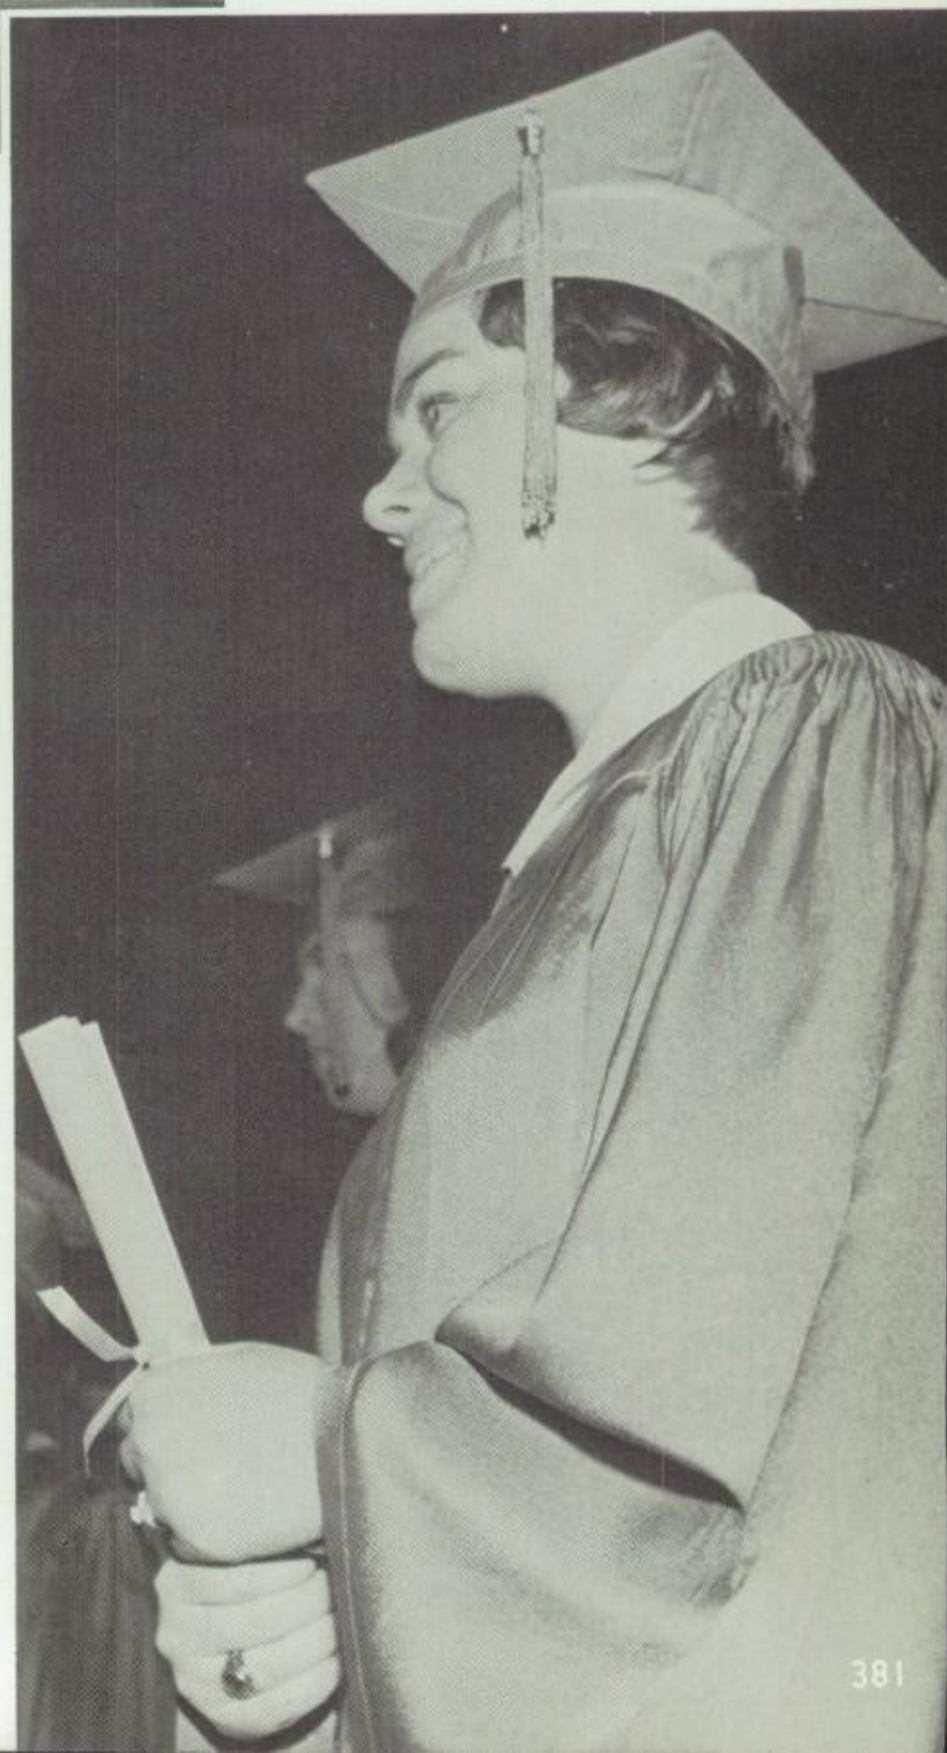

As the band played the "Triumphant March from Quo Vadis," 383 joyful seniors filed out of the auditorium to face the responsibilities of a new life.

to fill vacancies in faculty

During the past year, several teachers have joined the faculty, replacing teachers who have left because of illness or promotion.

One of the new teachers is Mrs. Lorraine Larose, who teaches first and second year algebra in place of Mrs. Baldy. Her "extra-curricular" activity involves her seven children; she is also an active Girl Scout sponsor.

During football season Coach David Hathcock, the new mechanical drawing teacher and a former Kingsbury student, plays professional football with the Green Bay Packers.

Mrs. Jo Ann Davis enjoys playing bridge, swimming, and water skiing. She teaches shorthand and office practice in Mrs. Patterson's place.

Reading, traveling, and tennis occupy John Belew when he had time to spare from general science.

Mrs. Karen Wilkey also teaches general science. Her hobbies include reading, traveling, and skiing.

Another new teacher in the science department is Mrs. Janet Caughran, from Rockwood, Tennessee. She teaches a special materials biology course.

After winning the state title last year, the Kingsbury baseball team was in a rebuilding stage this year. Only two first string players returned, Mike Collins and Billy Barlow, but there are many promising sophomore and junior players.

This was the first in four years that the Falcons did not make the district playoffs.

Coach Brock feels the Falcons did well considering they had little game experience.

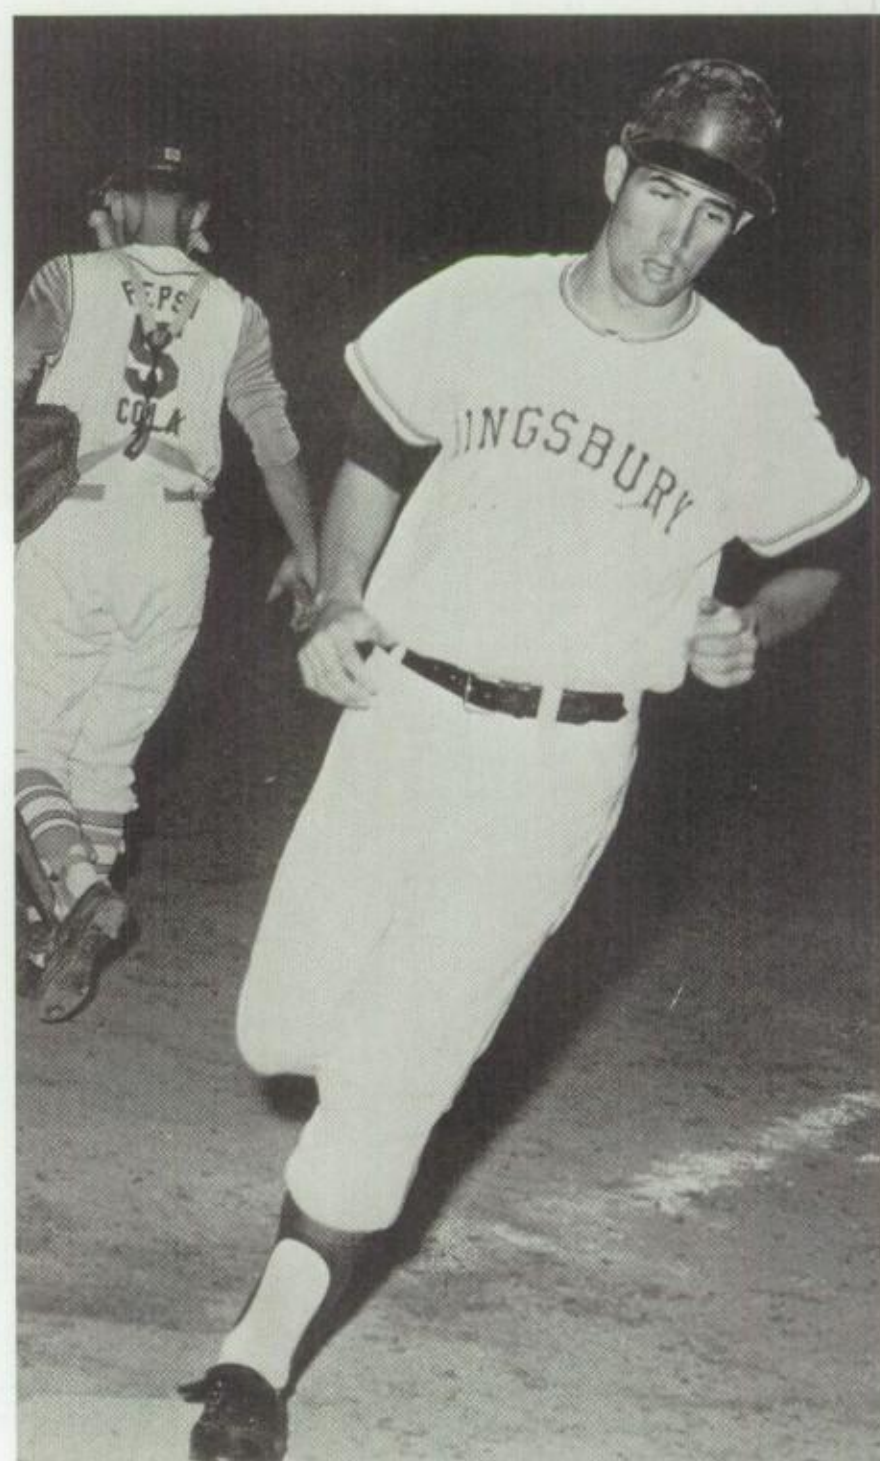

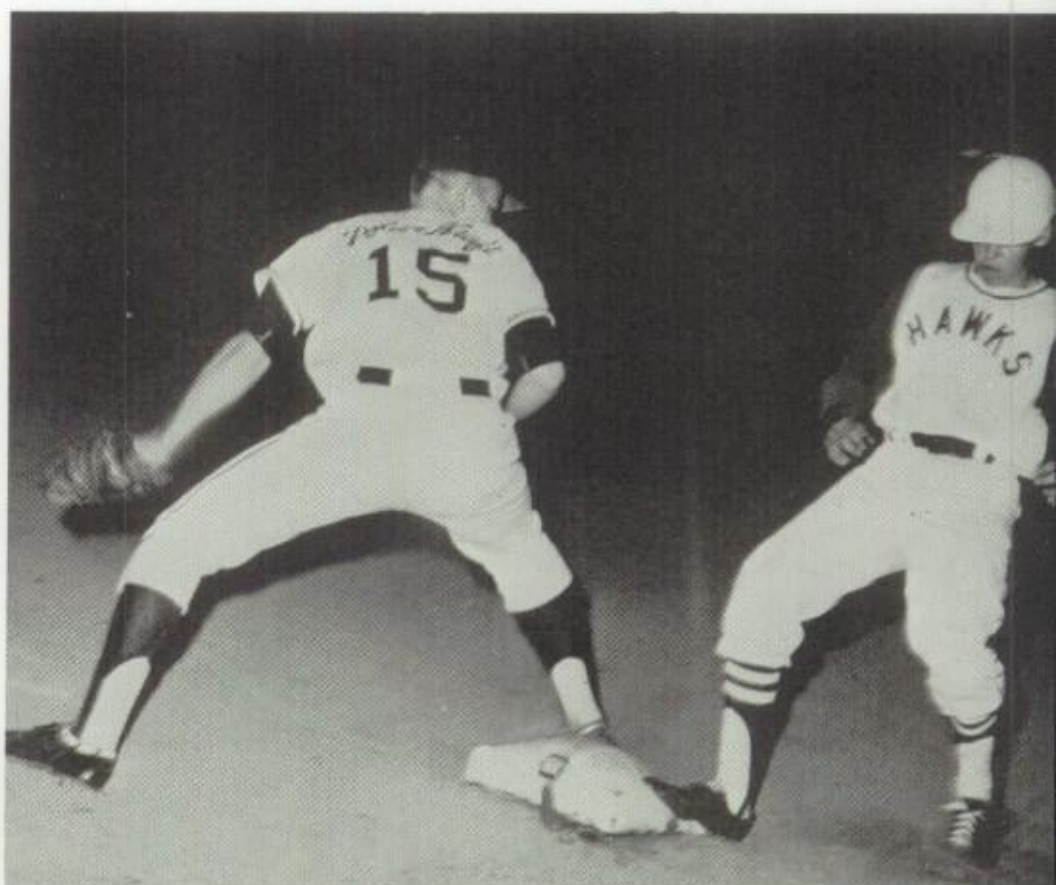

Billy Barlow, the hard-hitting Falcon third baseman, set a league record with 6 homeruns in 14 games. He has since been drafted by the New York Yankees.
